Although Japan Has Strongest Fleet in This Area, Churchill's Aide Is Optimistic

LONDON, Jan. 8: (P-Clement Atlee, Lord Privy Seal, speaking as Prime Minister Winston Churchill's deputy, told the House of Commons frankly today that Great Britain did not have sufficient resources for complete preparation against the Japanese who, he declared, at present have the most powerful fleet in the Pacific. He said the fact that Britain's Pacific positions were less strongly garrisoned and equipped than might have been wished was not due to lack of foresight but rather because it was beyond Britain's resources to be strong everywhere. Mr. Atlee then drew a sharp picture of Britain's utilization of her strength where it was concentrated and gave an optimistic broad view of the war.

MORE BORROWING ON LARGE SCALE FOR GREAT BRITAIN

Review of Past Year Talks in Billions of Dollars But Financial Machinery Is Standing Strain— Weekly War Cost $450,000,000.

LONDON, Jan. 8: (CP)—Concentration of economic resources on the war effort in Great Britain reached the point in 1941 where large-scale transfers from civilian to essential trades became necessary. Extension of rationing to more foodstuffs and to clothing, "telescoping" of industry, dilution of labor, special regulations for essential factories and most re-before the war around $90,000.000 week, now approaches about $450,000,000; last April when the current fiscal year began it was April and November more than $13,500,000,000 was spent, of which ordinary revenue covered $4,815,-

In the circumstances it seems likely that the treasury will have The Royal Air Force attacked milto revise its original estimate of itary objectives yesterday in $18,900,000,000 total expenditure in 1941-42 by a substantial margin a tribute to the rapid progress of today. defence work-but revenue also is expected to yield more than the reported striking with peak fury $8,100,000,000 budgeted for.

1942 Prospects

There remains a need for borcampaign which ended in Novemceipts from ordinary long and medium-term loans naturally fluctuated a great deal.

All loans, big and small, direct from investors and indirect from financial institutes, insurance MORE GOOD companies, building societies, etc. together yielded more than $5,850,-000,000 in April-November. Twothirds of all expenditure not covered by revenue was thus not currently by funded issues.

The floating debt increased in April-November by $2,961,000,000, mostly in the form of Treasury bills and deposit receipts placed with the banks. The Exchequer thus was able to profit from the banks' liquidity. Deposits with the ! nine clearing banks increased by Bryansk line on which the Gera monthly average of approximately $225,000,000, and since private customers did not require larger discounts and advances, all this could be reloaned to the government.

The steady expansion in bank deposits and not circulation, while reflecting the speed-up in economic activity, has caused some Home Lconomics concern. The note circulation, before the war slightly above $2,-250,000,000, was $2,700,000,000 at the end of 1940 and now is about ment, changed banking habits. larger reserve needs and higher wages and prices all contributed to the rise, but with the major of civilian goods, create and "in- been named. flationary gap" unless the surplus is absorbed by taxation and sav-
