WHIPS NICELY INTO A GOOD CREAM

"Because of its Vitamin D content Pacific Milk is great for building teeth and bones." Of course the lady is writing of growing children.

The things that builds strength into bones and teeth is Vitamin D. And that must be done when bones and teeth are growing.

POSTAL SERVICE

Editor, Daily News:

I do not know what the cost of a delivery system for mail would be. As a suggestion I would advocate that the post office extend the wickets to the wall, or nearly so, which should give room to double the present wicket facilities. They could then put a door in that side, for exit only, by removing one window. A few more lights, where they are needed, would also assist.

The staff is now much depleted, with several of the experienced clerks having joined some of the forces. Others have taken on jobs with better pay. Rumors have it that several more will shortly be leaving. Possibly the simplest way would be to close down the mail system completely and put everyone in khaki. No matter what decision is arrived at it will not suit some one.

We, who pay our taxes, are now paying for all the past wars and other blunders of the various governments. Now we are asked to not only fight this war but to pay for it as well, as we go along. Most of us will be dead in due course—long before we shall receive any benefit at best. So—just why all this cash and carry idea, all of a sudden?

IS EXPERT AT WELDING

Vancouver Lass Is Member Of Boilermakers' Union and Takes Her Raps In Work Beside Men

By ROSAMUND RUSSELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

VANCOUVER, Sept. 21 (CP)—Doris McSwan, 22 years of age, works in the shipyards here as a welder and her employers and co-workers regard her as an expert. She is perhaps the first woman in Canada to become a member of the Boilermakers' Union.

But to meet her off duty one would surmise she was a white-collar worker—possibly a stenographer or bank employee. A bit more than five feet tall, she is slender and weighs about 110 pounds. It is difficult to connect the fair-haired, quiet spoken young woman with the booted and helmeted figure standing on skids high up on ship's hull applying the welder's torch.

"Since childhood I have been interested in machinery and construction work," she explained. "I used to stand for hours after school and watch men working in garages. It always fascinated me."

Doris was born and went to public school in Calgary, Alta. She worked for a time as presser in dry-cleaning shops in Calgary and Vancouver and then attended a welding school.

Job Needs Patience

In a scrapbook recording progress of her unusual career, one entry mentions her first welding accomplishment—a firebox top for a milk producers' association. Another refers to representations she made to convince Mrs. Rex Eaton, former member of the Board of Industrial Relations, that the work she proposed to take up was fit for women.

"The men are all very good to me and pleasant to work with," she said. "We get along fine. The job calls for no heavy lifting or anything like that—merely lots of patience and good eyesight."

She cheerfully admits, however, that she finds it difficult to keep her nails attractive though she wears heavy gloves on the job. "They keep breaking off, but that's the least of my worries," she said.

For recreation Doris likes swimming, horse-back riding and bicycling and an occasional shopping spree.
