DAILY EDITION

FRIDAY, JUNE 26, 1942

We suppose that the way we are affected in the Daily News office by the mail service is a fair reflection of how it affects other business people of the place.

They may have improved our train service this past week or so but it has certainly resulted in a botch being made of the mails.

Why the through mails to and from the East and the mails of important intermediate points should be left for the freight trains to carry exclusively while the fast trains do not touch it at all seems strange enough.

The postal authorities should realize the present inconvenience of the service and should not need much inducement to bring about the obvious improvement.

To have a fast train come in on a Thursday evening without the mail which is brought in by the freight train late Friday night after two trains have left earlier on the Friday for the East with not another going until Monday night is a strange state of affairs. Another improvement that should obviously be made is the bringing in of the mail on the Saturday evening fast train instead of the Sunday night freight.

Also why should not fast trains leaving Wednesday and Friday mornings carry mail east as well as if not instead of the slow trains which leave the same nights?

The whole service is slowing up local business at a time when there was never a greater mail volume and when it is important, if ever it was, to have speed and efficiency.

If the business of Prince Rupert is important enough to warrant a better train service there is certainly no reason why it should result in the worst mail service we have ever had here.

We feel justified in insisting upon this matter of train service being rectified and at once by the making of arrangements whereby the fast trains should carry mail.

Co-ordination is one of the increasingly important factors of success in these highly technical and mechanical days. We should have had plenty of examples by now where effective co-ordination has beaten us to it from things of most inconsequential nature to matters of cardinal import ance. Efficiency can be a cruel weapon and it can be a great defence.

It's interesting to know when reading the Daily News that the people of the whole district are doing the same.
