Canadian Grain Situation . . .

Canada has this year the largest grain crop in its history. Quota restrictions with respect to how much of the crop can be marketed apply to individual producers because of limited facilities for storage and handling. Unless a maximum movement from western farms takes place deterioration of a large part of the year's crop will result.

Owing to lack of shipping space and other conditions, the grain traffic this year will largely have to depend upon movement by rail. As a matter of fact so large a movement of grain by rail in this country has never been attempted in the past. While railways are doing a good job, their burden becomes greater and greater.

For obvious reasons, grain traffic on the Pacific Coast is almost at a standstill. When the war is over, reconstruction starts, normal conditions are restored and distribution of grain to the countries which need it is resumed, it is reasonable to anticipate that this coast will handle more grain than ever before. The picture will, also, doubtless be different than it has been in the past for the grain elevator at Prince Rupert.

The Manpower Issue . . .

It is announced that Elliott M. Little, director of selective service, and the Federal Department of Labor have come to the parting of the ways. Those who have had the opportunity of observing the situation at Ottawa will be little surprised.

For some time it has been an open secret that Mr. Little, who has very definite and drastic ideas as to how Canada's manpower should be effectively marshalled, has been restless at the support these ideas have been getting from the government.

Mr. Little is one of those dynamic personalities who might truly be described as a man of action. There has been the general feeling for some time that the attitude of the government in regard to the manpower question has been reactionary. Mr. Little, undoubtedly an expert on problems regarding manpower, resigns because he feels frustrated in dealing with manpower in the manner which he considers most effective in time of crisis such as now exists.

Have the Boys for Christmas . . .

We are glad to support the appeal of Mrs. Garbutt of the Y.W.C.A. to the home people of Prince Rupert to make an effort to entertain the boys of the services this Christmas and New Year. Mrs. Garbutt suggests that obviously the best way of doing this is to have the boys in for dinner and the evening. The type of boys that Mrs. Garbutt will send are those who will not expect or desire that any "fuss" be made about them. In fact, a good square home-cooked holiday meal in a wholesome family atmosphere is all they will crave. The less artificiality and the less formality about it the better they will like it.

By all means, have a boy—or two or three or more—in for Christmas and New Year. You will enjoy it and so will they. You will have made appreciative friends.

Think of your own boy. How would you feel if he was far away from home under the same circumstances as many of the boys in Prince Rupert find themselves today?

We would say now that no Prince Rupert Christmas or New Year dinner should be felt complete unless there are in attendance as many of the boys in uniform as can be possibly handled.

ACTIVITIES OF Y.M.C.A. AND Y.W.C.A.

By DOROTHY GARBUTT, Hostess

I have just been up to the military hospital to see Signalman Allan Hincks of the Navy. He was the unfortunate victim of a hit and run driver on Sunday night and suffered a broken nose and back injuries. Some of us think his name should be "Jinx" instead of Hincks. He was as cheery as ever despite the fact that it cost him a deal of pain to laugh and he thought up one or two stories to tell me. It was a case of my being cheered up by him.

At last it is here — a sleek streamlined and altogether elegant oil heater for the family lounge. No more chattering teeth and card games played with gloves on. It's the height of luxury.

The weekly meeting of the Service Wives' Club was held in the family lounge on Thursday. Mrs. Doolittle, the president, was absent from the chair but her place was ably filled by Mrs. Barbara Perry. The ladies were very busy filling stockings which they intend giving to the boys in the hospital at Christmas. As a great deal of work is involved in this effort: the members who did attend urgently request the others to turn out at the next meeting and help. Don't let this job revert to Churchill's famous dictum: "Never has so much depended on so few." Come out and help. Mrs. Huff won the raffle donated by Mrs. Martin.

There will be another big Bingo game tonight at the hut. The prizes are being given out under a different system. If you get Bingo you choose a ticket and that corresponds with a prize. You may be lucky enough to win a large packet of cigarettes—I say you may though the odds are against you—or you may win a packet of lifesavers or even a bar of nice fragrant soap.

I was sorry to see an old friend, one Chadsey of the Signal Corps, in hospital. Best wishes for recovery to him.

Tribute Is Paid By Rotary Club

Sentiments of Service Organization Voiced at Yesterday's Luncheon by Col. J. W. Nicholls

The sentiments of the Prince Rupert Rotary Club in the passing of the last remaining charter member were appropriately expressed at yesterday's luncheon of the club by Col. J. W. Nicholls. The late H. F. Pullen, Col. Nicholls remarked, had been a good citizen and a good Rotarian. Referring to his proclivities as a horticulturalist, Col. Nicholls stated that he had always left a home a better place than he had found it. The community, too, had been the better for his presence.

Without any other proceedings than the luncheon and the eulogy of Col. Nicholls, the gathering adjourned out of respect to Mr. Pullen.

SPORT CHAT

Being good dancer won't make a swimming champion out of you, but it might help. Ray Daughters, the coach who developed champions like Helene Madison, Jack Medina and other topflight aquatic stars, explains that a sense of rhythm, grace and co-ordination is one of the first qualities he looks for in a prospective swimming star. "You'll usually find most swimmers are excellent dancers," he observed.

Baseball fans stood on church pews in the Church of Saints Peter and Paul in San Francisco three years ago when New York Yankees' star outfielder, Joe DiMaggio, was married to Dorothy Arnold of Hollywood and the movies. DiMaggio had helped Yankees to their fourth consecutive World Series victory a few weeks earlier.

SMALL CITY STORY HERE

"King's Row" at Capitol Theatre This Week-end

The story of young people struggling to find happiness against the opposition of circumstances and misunderstanding in the seething undercurrent of small city life with its petty jealousies and Meas. "King's Row" comes as a feature offering to the screen of the Capitol Theatre this Friday and Saturday. There is high drama and comedy, pathos and excitement. It is particularly the story of two romances: one between Ann Sheridan and Ronald Reagan and the other, a three-way affair, first between Cummings and Kaaren Verne.

The period is between 1890 and 1900 and woven into the intricate tale of loves and lives in the small city are the back-fence gossip and whispered accusations, the high spots of love and sacrifice that go to make up life in any typically American community. The climax leaves undertones of hope and courage as to the ability of young people to meet and overcome their troubles.

Besides Ann Sheridan, Robert Cummings, Ronald Reagan, Betty Field and Kaaren Verne, the cast includes such well known figures as Charles Coburn, Judith Anderson, Claude Rains, Nancy Coleman, Maria Ouspenskaya and Harry Davenport.
