Little Theatre May Be Revived

Renewed Interest Being Shown in Amateur Dramatics in Prince Rupert

With a view to reviving the Prince Rupert Little Theatre movement, a meeting will be held next week. This was the outcome of a meeting last night at which Nathan Harris Smarinsky of London, England, endeavored to again stimulate interest in amateur dramatics in the city. Present at the meeting were a number of men in the various services here as well as a few local people who are interested in dramatics.

Mrs. G. H. Arnold, president of the Prince Rupert Little Theatre, told how that organization was already in being here with provincial government affiliation. After hearing Mrs. Arnold the meeting agreed that the most effective means of reviving amateur dramatics here would be through the organizations of the Little Theatre.

Capt. Heinz also spoke and a committee consisting of Richard Fulgham, Nora Dougherty, Lloyd Morris and Violet Man was delegated to proceed with arrangements for staging three-act plays.
