Wise Men Learn

Sooner or later a man, if he is wise, discovers that life is a mixture of good days and bad, victory and defeat, give and take. He learns that it doesn't pay to be a sensitive soul; that he should let some things go over his head like water off a duck's back. He learns that he who loses his temper usually loses out. He learns that all men have burnt toast for breakfast now and then, and that he shouldn't take the other fellow's grouch too seriously.

He learns that carrying a chip on his shoulder is the easiest way to get into a fight. He learns that buckpassing always turns out to be a boomerang and that it never pays. He learns that it doesn't matter who gets the credit so long as the business shows a profit.

He learns that everybody is human and that it does not do any harm to smile and say "Good morning" even if it is raining. He learns that most of the other fellows are as ambitious as he is, that they have brains that are as good or better, and that hard work and not cleverness is the secret of success.

He learns that no man ever got to first base alone, and that it is only through co-operative effort that we move on to better things. He learns that folks are not any harder to get along with in one place than another, and that the "getting along" depends about ninety-eight per cent on his own behaviour.

After all the summer sunshine, Prince Rupert people seem to be finding it difficult to adjust themselves to normal fall weather conditions.
