Regarding Japanese—

LEGION IS GRATIFIED AT ACTION

Federal Steps Approved — Fifth Column Menace To Coast Seen

The Daily News report of the action of the Dominion government in connection with the inter-departmental committee dealing with Japanese and enemy aliens in defence areas of British Columbia was received with some gratification at the regular monthly meeting of the Prince Rupert branch of the Canadian Legion in the clubrooms last evening. A resolution endorsing the action was approved but it was agreed that the way in which the act would be implemented was even more important than the wording of the act. The pronouncement of Japanese statesmen in the past that the "rising sun" was to dominate the world should not be overlooked. The power that the Japanese government retain over its nationals no matter where born might well overrule the wishes of the Japanese individual. Moreover, it was well known that Japanese youths below the age of sixteen years were well versed in the navigation of British Columbia coast waters and they would constitute a real menace as a fifth column should the Japanese attempt landings on this coast. Representations drawing attention to these factors will be forwarded to the Provincial Command and also to Col. MacGregor Macintosh, first vice-president of the British Columbia Command, Canadian Legion and a member of the committee now in Ottawa advising the Dominion Government of the wishes of citizens of British Columbia.

Menace Stressed

Preceding the regular meeting there was an address by George Anderson, secretary of the Halibut Fishermen's Association, who, at the invitation of the Legion, spoke on the Japanese question as it affects the fishing industry. Mr. Anderson spoke on the economic aspect of the Japanese penetration into the halibut fishing industry, and the effect on a national defence program of their familiarity with the British Columbia coast. There was more than a suspicion that in past years certain operatives in the British Columbia coastal waters were officers of the Japanese navy. The possibility that supply bases for Japanese submarines were available in coastal waters could not be ignored. The subjugation of Manchu by Japan was a lesson that should not be overlooked by the people of Canada. This would constitute a serious post-war prob-

Some of the local business men complain of the number of dogs that run around the city out of control.

They say the dogs are insanitary and the places they haunt are also insanitary.

They say that because of their loose way with the dogs the people of this proud city are villagers.

They also say the people here should mend their ways and also mend their dogs' ways.

Nurse: "Well, the one in the middle is."

Whifflets From The Waterfront

Eight geese and twenty mallards was the bag of a hunting party consisting of Capt. Sam Hougan, Jack Lindsay, C. C. Mills, A. R. Nichols and B. J. Bacon which visited Dundas Island over the week-end, leaving Saturday morning and returning Monday evening. It was a stormy trip.

There was considerable skepticism regarding the existence of the Fisheries Institute, an organization that had denied that representations had been made to the Dominion government stating that Japanese fishermen of British Columbia would be needed to operate boats in the ensuing fishing season. Mr. Anderson was cordially thanked for his informative address.

In addition to letters of thanks previously reported there were letters from the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps unit at Prince Rupert through Major T. W. Sutherland and the Women's Auxiliary of the Second Searchlight Battery. Cards were received from Lieutenant Orme Stuart and from Jimmy Nimmo of the First Canadian Scottish who recalled with pleasure the many happy times in the Legion rooms.

A donation of $25 was voted to the Canadian Red Cross to be used for medical supplies for the Russian allies. The local drive by the Red Cross for salvage was endorsed.

An interested visitor to the meeting was William Murray, past president of the Chilliwack branch of the Canadian Legion. Mr. Murray expressed his pleasure at being in attendance and congratulated the branch on its evening's business.

Following regular adjournment refreshments were served.
