Talking of Millions . . .

Ald. McKay, who has been around a bit and knows the town, talks of a million dollar public works program for the city. Ald. Arnold, the lady member of the city council with an eye to business, talks about raising the million from the governments. Both may very well talk that way.

Ald. McKay realistically pictures what this city needs. He knows that they are no penny-rate requirements. Ald. Arnold fully realizes that the requirements cannot be met out of any of the presently visible financial resources of the city authority—immediate or potential.

The new city council is beginning to appreciate that | We its task is to build the city over again from the standpoint Ba of public works and services. It realizes too the great difficulties that present themselves, particularly in these war days, in financing things and getting them done.

The city council has big problems and big tasks ahead Ba and it is a wise person who has much idea of how they Lyk are going to be met. We do know they cannot be met from La present limited visible resources.

Great Russian Victories . . .

Kursk, Rostov, Voroshilovgrad, Kharkov -in quick succession—those are great victories our Russian allies have been making these last few days in the mighty effort to drive the Nazi invaders out of their homeland. Let Goebbels call them strategic withdrawals, if he likes! No doubt they are strategic, due, most likely, to the fear of the western invasion of the Reich. Whatever kind of withdrawals they may have been, they constitute major defeats for the senior partner of the Axis. They have been much too serious losses to be explained away glibly as mere strategic withdrawals. They have hurt Germany too badly-in men, in equipment, in prestige and, more than likely, in morale on the home front.

Although there may be much for us to do yet before the war is safely won, we may be heartened at the situation in Europe these days. It is not wishful thinking for us to be convinced that things are not happening according to Nazi plan in Russia and that the events there are in the way of definite progress towards our own victorious peace.

Battle of Tunisia . . .

We watch the Battle of Tunisia, showdown of the African campaign, with the keenest of interest. There another battle is now being joined which may well have far-reaching effect upon the progress if not the outcome Lee of the whole great world conflict. There are great forces of both sides massed in Tunisia and we are assured that we may expect hard and bloody fighting and heavy losses. There may also be some passing reverses but we need not be too alarmed when they occur. Certainly our position in that area is vastly better than it was not so very long ago.

City Council Backs Application of Whiz Fisheries for Priority Permit

In view of the shortage of fish refrigeration facilities here, the plication of Whiz Fisheries for a federal priority permit to establish a new freezing plant at Prince Rupert. It would be an 80,000 pound be available for use this season. unit and the plan is that it should be available for use this season. Fresh water requirements would be no greater than the company is at present using as salt water could be pumped for cooling purposes.

When the matter came before the city council at its meeting Monday night, Ald. Brett and Ald. Elliott, who are familiar with the fisheries situation here, agreed that further freezing facilities were badly needed here. A critical situation developed last year in handling of fish through shortage of such facilities.
