Star in New Hilarious Film as "Air Raid Wardens" return to the screen in a series of most comical adventures in Wednesday and Thursday to the enable them to poke fun from the importance of the service they represent.

forces, the partners become wardens. Their blunders in first aid, in which they truss Howard Freeman up and almost kill him, don't help their situation any. Then they run afoul of Edgar Kennedy, who refuses to co-operate in a blackout, in a hilarious routine that gets them thrown out of service. But when they fall into the hands of a gang of saboteurs, headed by Henry O'Neill, they blunder for once into the correct thing to do and emerge as heroes.

Jacqueline White, new screen beauty, and Horace McNally provide young romance. Funmakers include Donald Meek and Nella Walker.

Trailers In Prince Rupert

Missionary, Unable to Obtain House, Asks for Permission To Live in One

The question of permitting residence in automobile trailers came before the city council for the first time last night with an application from F. T. Balmer, pastor of the Seventh Day Adventist Church, that he be allowed to take up such residence in view of the fact that he was unable to obtain a house in which to live. Mr. Balmer would park his trailer on Eleventh Street if permission were granted. At present there is no provision in the city bylaws covering trailer residence. The matter was referred to the health committee.
