The Red Cross . . .

The Canadian Red Cross Society has been engaged for the past three weeks in a drive for $10,000,000. Canada, as a whole, has so far failed to reach the national objective although Prince Rupert is well over the $12,000 which was set for it.

Possibly the Prince Rupert quota was a little on the low side. In any case, further subscriptions are urgently needed to assist the valuable work that the Red Cross is carrying out, the importance of which we have attempted to urge on many occasions heretofore.

To those who may not have been called upon and those who feel they might have given more we would suggest they send their gifts in as soon as possible, regardless of the last day. And we would repeat — be as generous as possible!

The Liquor Situation . . .

Once they are adjusted to it, Canadians should be able to get along very nicely with less liquor. Meanwhile, the restrictions, having been imposed so suddenly, are regarded by not a few as working a hardship.

It should be remembered that the reason the restrictions were imposed was that the people, suddenly prosperous, were obviously consuming too much liquor. We have only to recall conditions as they were here in Prince Rupert some ten or twelve months ago to appreciate that. There may be liquor line-ups and there may be bootlegging today but the fact remains that Prince Rupert is once again a quiet and orderly town, especially by night. That is satisfactory and it is to be hoped that conditions will remain that way and that nothing is done to disturb them.

Possibly some improvements can be made in the means of distributing equitably the reduced amount of liquor available. No doubt the authorities are as anxious as anybody to perfect this distribution system. There are bottlenecks at present as witness the daily line-up each morning at the liquor store but the question is what to do about it. Possibly the solution will be a systematic rationing plan which will doubtless mean less than forty ounces a month which is the limit today.

Attention has been drawn to the resorting by some reckless and damaged persons to the use of such substitutes for alcoholic intoxicants as lemon extract and methyl hydrate. There may have been somewhat of a run on these commodities but doubtless, it can be speedily and effectively dealt with. They will, of course, run out soon but it is to be hoped that this will not be caused by the demand of invidious inebriates.

"We only had soft drinks and we had a wonderful time," was the remark we heard from a sophisticated socialite the other day describing a party where, up to the advent of restrictions, there would have been an abundance of cocktails and other sorts of liquor. Already, many people who are not disposed to spend the time and effort now needed to obtain liquor are becoming quite used to the situation. Soon dry parties may be the style and that will be all to the good, particularly as far as the young people are concerned.

In spite of so much we hear about the honest working man and the average good citizen being used and entitled to his glass of beer, who knows we may even be able to get along very nicely too with a good deal less of that?

Possibly the present distribution plan may not be all that it might be. Still we think, in a general way, the authorities are on the right track and it is to be hoped that they will not be diverted by fulsome and vociferous protestations and red herrings from noisy people who are more interested in their own satisfaction than the general good or even the war effort.

Meanwhile, Prince Rupert is a better town from the standpoint of law and order and the public appearance of respectability than it was a few months ago when still there was all the liquor and beer available nearly anybody would buy.

It's interesting to know when reading the Daily News that the people of the whole district are doing the same

A keen game of football was played by teams from King Edward and Borden Street public school at King Edward School grounds Friday afternoon. The final score was 7-0 in favor of the more experienced King Edward team. Teams were as follows: Borden Street — Goal, Wallace Scharff; left back, Micky Webster; right back, Alan Hartwig; left half, Billy Davidson; centre half, Reggie Ronald; right half, Marvin Brew; left wing, Billy Mutch; inside left, Roy Clifford; centre forward, Bob Gill (captain); inside right, Norman Hill, right wing, Gardiner Paul.

King Edward—Goal, Hal Rogers; left back, Jack Sharpe; right back, M. Kenneth; left half, George Haugan; centre half, Andrew Owens; right half, Billy Davidson; right wing, Sidney Scherk; inside right, Donald Scherk; centre forward, Bob Anderson; inside left, Harold Pierce; right wing, Donald Bouvette. Spares—Jimmy Flaten, Wilfred Prince.

Teams were in charge of S. A. Cheeseman and Brice Mickleburgh respectively, the latter acting as referee.

SPORT CHAT

Time was when Dave Pickard bounced the hockey lads around plenty back in Canada and it's one of his greatest sorrows that he can't step on the ice over here. As Ft. Lt. Pickard of the Canadian Demon Squadron of shipwreckers location and nature of duties just don't permit him to get back in the game. For one thing there's no rink nearby. Now Dave is on the lookout for a spot on an English rugby team. He played that game while a student at University of New Brunswick. Pick's last hockey activity was in 1940-41 when he performed for Flyers in the Ottawa City League when duties at Uplands allowed. Back around 1913 he played with Fredericton Millionaires and Saint John Beavers in the New Brunswick Senior League.

A couple of former Big Four footballers in new surroundings are "Touchdown Tony" Golab and Norm Bertrand, both of Ottawa and both pilot officers. It's really superfluous to say that Tony is the guy who used to pile up such big yardage gains for Ottawa Rough Riders before joining the R.C.A.F. Bertrand jumped from Ottawa high school ranks to Montreal of the Big Four in 1940. St. Patrick's and Ottawa Technical cradled his rugby career. Bertrand's brother, Doug, a hockey and football stalwart around the Capital, has been in the R.C.A.F. some time. He has flown both Beaufighter night-fighters and Blenheim Bombers and has recovered from serious injuries suffered in a flying mishap.

It's a long jump from the hockey lanes of Canada and the United States to Canadian service police work with the air force in England, but LAC. Bing Anderson of Parry Sound, Ont., still finds time for his favorite sport. This season he played with the R.C.A.F. Headquarters team. Bing stepped up from Sudbury juniors in 1938 to join Detroit Holzhof of the Michigan-Ontario League. At that time Goalie Joe Turner and Defenceman Doug McCuaig, now the property of Detroit Red Wings of the National League, were a couple of Bing's teammates.

There's no doubt Harold (Happy) Hoar of Truro, N.S., misses hockey. That's because of lack of ice near his squadron, but he doesn't feel out of his element in English sport. Happy, who played hockey with Truro Bearcats during the mid-30's, also was quite a hand at English rugby in the Maritimes. So he didn't need any introduction to rugby when he stepped out with the R.A.F. boys on his station. Another athlete in the same nightfighter unit, Ft. Lt. Massey Beaveridge of Westmount, Quebec, qualified himself at the game. It didn't require a great deal of conversion for: in pre-war days he was flying wing with McGill University's intercollegiate football team—and a darn good one.

INTEREST LOCALLY

'They Flew Alone' Pictures Career Of Amy and Jim Mollison

A picture with a decided angle of local interest comes to the screen of the Capitol Theatre here next Monday and Tuesday in "They Flew Alone," a thrilling aviation drama which chronicles the careers of Amy Johnson and Jim Mollison from their earliest days to the time of "Johnny's" tragic death while engaged in war aviation. The local angle is, of course, the fact that Amy Johnson was the niece of T. H. Johnson, for years general manager of the Canadian Fish & Cold Storage Co. here and now residing in Victoria. Anna Neagle, celebrated English actress, plays the part of Amy Johnson while Robert Newton appears as Jim Mollison.

Emulating fiction is the graphic story of the two great fliers whose temperaments and courage spurred them on to great aviation feats but who failed to find happiness under the searching spotlight of fame. The mystery which surrounded "Johnny's" death and the work of herself and her husband in their country's interest are stimulating incidents in a drama that is real and authentic. The picture was made with the co-operation and approval of the heroine's parents and Jim Mollison himself.

Survey Shows Women Take Aspirin for Headache Relief

Women "home fighters," working by millions in war plants, are not letting anything interfere with their work . . . not even a headache . . . according to a recent British government survey.

This questionnaire issued to women revealed that they consider Aspirin one of the three most helpful drug items, for maintaining health.

Naturally, Aspirin has become a household "watchword." For generations, it has proved itself dependable, quick . . . easing millions of headaches, neuritis, neuralgia pain, without unpleasant after-effects. In fact, Aspirin is known as one of the safest analgesics known. It costs less than 1¢ per tablet, in the economy bottle. Keep it handy, yourself.

Aspirin, made in Canada, is the trademark of The Bayer Company, Limited. If you don't see the Bayer cross on each tablet, it isn't Aspirin.
