Glamourize Meat Loaves

No matter what else your meat market doesn't have, chances are there'll be the makin's of a meat loaf

What's in a meat loaf? Well, that's up to you; but take it from me, a meat loaf can be a rare and and planning. Take shape for in- in your refrigerator. stance. Everyone likes variety, so make the loaf different every time. Meat loaf in a ring mold with the centre full of buttered peas or creamed celery is a sight to start mouths watering.

Then the flavour, that's up to you again. Some folks like to season the mixture with sage or other herbs. Then others like a dash of Worcester or horseradish. And don't think a meat loaf must be 100 per cent beef! Try mixing ground beef with the same amount of ground heart. (That's putting extra nutrition into the meal, too.) And don't be afraid of other meats (veal, pork or lamb) which may elegant thing with a bit of thought be available. Or the leftover meats As to texture, some like a dry loaf, some a moist one. The secret lies in the bread crumbs. Fine crumbs make a compact loaf—need more liquid to avoid dryness. And one last hint. When the meat loaf is cold it is excellent sliced between mustard-buttered slices of Canada Approved bread for a tasty and sustaining lunchbox sandwich.

Have you your copy of 'Meat Complete' yet? Martha Logan's handbook of meat cookery is invaluable for wartime meal planners. Send 10¢ to Swift Canadian Co.
