Vital Help Of Greeks Turns Tide

BODRUM, Turkey, Nov. 16 as the German assault had about succeeded, refugees arriving here said today.

The Greeks were said to have gained control of beaches, attacking the Nazis from the rear and relieving the British defenders then pinched to narrow British and German Air Forces sectors of the island.

The latest Cairo despatches said that the situation on Leros was improved slightly. Reports reaching Bodrum put the German dead at 2,000 but the Nazis were believed holding to the beachheads.
