If You Can SAVE

If obtaining a loan at the Bank will save money for your business or personal affairs, then borrowing is sound practice, even in war-time.

A retailer, for example, may obtain a substantial discount if his purchases are for cash, justifying a short-term loan at the Bank.

In personal affairs, an emergency expenditure may be reduced by having the cash to meet it, even at the cost of a bank loan. The cost of a personal loan is very reasonable: $3.65 for each $100, repayable in 12 monthly instalments.

Determined, systematic saving by every citizen is a part of the national price of VICTORY.
