Couple Playing Marathon Rummy

It's Old Man's Idea, Explains British Wife Regarding Four Year Game

LONDON, June 17 ©—Chances are that Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Lawford of Suburban Maida Vale are playing the war's longest game of rummy. It goes on each night and had its beginning in September, 1940. The goal is 1,000,000-up and at the moment Mr. Lawford leads with 27,000 against his wife's 19,000. "When the bad air raids began it was my old man's idea to start playing rummy," said Mrs. Lawford. "He said it would take my mind off the bombs and it certainly did. We don't play for stakes but he gets mad if I win." At the present rate of scoring it will take them more than 90 years to score 1,000,000 up.

Save in Home Bank in Bonds

LONDON, June 17 ©—One sure way for a housewife to hang on to whatever money she is able to save from her housekeeping budget is to help the war effort. Husbands take warning. Sir Kingsley Wood is the authority for this statement. He said a woman who buys War Savings Certificates or bonds has a sure grip on money to the value of the purchase because she alone can cash them in.

MOTHER TO 200 GIRLS

Many Qualities Are Essential At Air Post

By Gladys Lennon
Canadian Press Staff Writer
AN R.C.A.F. BASE IN NEW-FOUNDLAND, June 17 ©—"Mother to more than 200 girls" is the way Flight Officer Elizabeth H. Bie of Moose Jaw describes her job. She is senior officer in charge of the R.C.A.F. (War-time Division) at this operational base.

Small and dark-eyed, she is young to have the responsibility of so large a family. But there is something in her air of quiet confidence which says the girls and their problems are in good hands.

For they do bring her their troubles. The girl worried about illness at home comes asking her to be posted back to Canada so she can be near her family. An airwoman whose boy friend has just received his commission asks desperately, "Do I have to give him up?" because of the rule that airwomen must not go out with officers.

Flight Officer Bie listens to them all with a sympathetic interest and does whatever help is possible in the particular case. "Of course, some of them are independent and wouldn't talk things over with anybody," she said. "But most of them depend on us to get them out of their troubles."

Scattered Duties
Perhaps the trouble is with the girls' work—it may not be just that she would like to do or feels capable of doing. Though most of the girls work directly under R.C.A.F. officers, ultimate responsibility for their work and welfare rests with their own W. D. officers.

Now and again the senior officer takes time from her busy days to visit the scattered points at which the girls work, to make sure that working conditions are satisfactory and that they are doing a good job.

Fitting the girls into the jobs for which they are best suited, she said, "is right down my alley." Formerly on the staff of the Moose Jaw Technical High School, she holds a master's degree in personnel and guidance.

But supervision of the girls is a relatively small part of Flight Officer Bie's work. As Assistant Adjutant, in her small office between those of the Commanding Officer and the Adjutant, most of her day is spent dealing with matters far beyond the bounds of the Women's Division.

Plenty Troubles
"The Flight Officer doesn't talk about this side of her work. 'Oh, it's just a general Joe,' she will say, with a smile that robs the words of any self-pity. 'Sometimes I think all the troubles of the station are on my shoulders.'"

One of the first of the Women's Division to reach this station about ten months ago, Flight Officer Bie was notified on Good Friday of her promotion from Section Officer. For some time she had been hearing rumors that it was coming, but dismissed them with a shrug and the characteristic remark, "I'm not getting excited until I see it in cold print."

Briefs From Britain

Some senior British police officers are to be trained as town majors for service when the continent is invaded.

Britain's new magistrates—men and women—are going to lectures to learn their jobs as arranged by the Magistrates' Association.

Lightweight overcoats are planned by the British Board of Trade for the winter of 1944. They propose that no utility overcoat be made from cloth heavier than 22 ounces a yard.

Tyneside factories, "adopting" farms, all of them in their own district, are guaranteeing to keep them supplied with labor.

Dave Kendall, organizer of the Workers' Union in South Africa, died at his home in Slough, Buckinghamshire. He was 62.

Sir Francis Verner Wylie, minister to Afghanistan, has been appointed political adviser to the Viceroy of India.

A music festival of 11 concerts by the BBC symphony orchestra is planned for war workers and servicemen. The orchestra will travel to factory areas and camps.

A cat was racing down a village street in southeast England when an enemy plane dropped a bomb. The blast lifted the cat 20 feet in the air and carried it more than 40 yards. It lived.

A group of miners, picked at random, will be used in a British Health Department experiment intended to better the health condition of coal workers. They will be examined every three months and their diet checked carefully.

Two Criminal Investigation department women attached to Scotland Yard have been sentenced to 12 months in jail for stealing from empty houses in London.

Disputes involving stoppages of work in Britain and Northern Ireland during March numbered 152, compared with 100 the previous month. The aggregate working days lost was estimated at 122,000.

The Archbishop of York has cut his income in half. In future he will receive £4,500 ($10,250) yearly, but the upkeep of his palace will come from the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, instead of from his own pocket.

The Rev. H. W. Jansch of Northampton, criticising disruptive influences in home life, told the Baptist Union assembly that birth control was "rank selfishness." He said there were few truly Christian homes in Britain and the immediate hope of an increase was remote.

UNDER THE SOLID FUEL CREDIT PLAN

YOU CAN START BUYING YOUR NEXT WINTER'S COAL NOW....

A scarcity of Coal and Coke is a definite danger for Canadian homes next winter . . . unless Coal is kept moving into consumers' bins just as fast as it can be mined and distributed.

To help householders purchase Coal now, in advance of actual need, the Solid Fuel Credit Plan is being put into operation again this year.

See that you have heat in your home when the cold weather comes again. Now is the time to place your Coal order . . . not next fall or next winter.

FEATURES OF THE PLAN

1. You can—and should—order your next winter's coal from your dealer now.
2. You can pay for it in equal monthly instalments, over a period to be arranged with your dealer. All payments are to be completed by May 15, 1944.
3. All arrangements are made with your dealer.
4. You simply fill in a Credit Application Form and a note for value of your coal purchase. The note is financed by your dealer through his bank, under the Government-sponsored Solid Fuel Credit Plan.
5. You pay a regular interest charge of 6.20% per annum on unpaid balances, for this convenience. For example, on a purchase of $80 worth of coal to be paid for over a period of 6 months, the interest charge, the only additional charge you pay, would amount to $1.42.
6. The value of the coal bought by any individual under this Plan, must not be less than $50 and not more than $250.
7. All coal purchased under this Plan must be delivered into consumers' bins not later than September 30, 1943.
8. Your dealer will make delivery to you during the coming months as he obtains his supplies from the mines.

SEE YOUR DEALER AT ONCE!

If Canadian homes are to be kept warm next winter, Coal must be mined and hauled without let-up during the summer months.
