New Moves Are Due...

The Japanese campaign in the Pacific has slowed up. We have only to consider what our enemy across the water has done so far this year in comparison with his onslaught of last year and its tremendous results. Today we see him stalemated in the southern Pacific, being to large extent held by the Chinese in their area, at a standstill in Burma and now suffering reverses in the Aleutians. The Jap is losing face and that is the time when he can be most dangerous and surprising. That is the time when it is quite unpredictable where he may strike next.

There are certain places where our Oriental enemy certainly can and might be reasonably expected to strike. Indeed, there are many such places. Prince Rupert is one of those places.

Without appearing to be unduly alarming, this might again be a good time to consider what the effects of an attack might be and to take what reasonable safeguards we can. It is obvious from what we see about us that the military authorities are not unmindful of the possibilities and are preparing to meet them. Civilians would also do well to be on their guard these long summer days.

New Alberta Premier...

Chief personal disciple of the late William Aberhart in Social Credit and first lieutenant of the dead Premier as head of the Alberta government, Hon. E. C. Manning, as might have been expected, has become the new Premier of Alberta after being chosen by a Social Credit caucus to succeed Mr. Aberhart.

Former minister of trade and industry and provincial secretary in the Aberhart government, Mr. Manning may be expected to carry on along lines very similar to those which Mr. Aberhart followed — a government which would be idealistic but which it has been found by experience must be conducted practically and consistently, compatible with the rest of the world.

By a long measure the youngest Premier in Canada. Mr. Manning, now only thirty-four years of age, will possess the vigor and enthusiasm of youth and a measure of experience that it is the fortune of few administrators of his youth to have behind him. Conditions are ideal for him to serve his province in its highest office with good effect.

Jimmy Thomas Honored...

We are happy indeed to record the news this afternoon of the conferring of a King's Birthday honor upon Skipper Jimmy Thomas of Prince Rupert. As far as we are aware, this is the first time that a member of the Fishermen's Reserve has been so honored.

We do not know what particular exploit, if any, was the basis for Skipper Thomas being singled out for the honor but we can say that probably no one more richly merits it than he. To that we are sure that his many friends, and there are none of our marine men who have come over the years to be more widely known and more highly esteemed than Jimmy, will agree. At the same time, we know that Jimmy would modestly say that, in being awarded the King's honor, he does so not only from an individual standpoint but he does so as the member of a service that, since the first of the war and before that indeed, has been doing a yeoman service in the protection and defence of these coasts. Possibly not everyone appreciates just what a job the Fishermen's Reserve has been performing in season and out, in fair weather and foul—a patrol job that it will continue doing quietly and willingly as long as war persists.

So in adding our word of congratulations to our old friend Skipper Jimmy Thomas in the individual sense, we think it is also fitting to pay tribute on this occasion to all the other ships and men of the Fishermen's Reserve whom we here in Prince Rupert know so well and esteem so highly.

Probably only a few of the old timers will recall that Skipper Thomas, who first came here in 1909 where he had been for five years in the fish business, established on old Rupert Road the Central Fish Market, second fish market to be operated in this city. He did not, however, remain long in that line but went into the charter launch business with the cruiser Alice B., which was a popular vessel with picnic parties and as a general service boat in the early days. Later he acquired the larger boat Viner which for years he has operated as a fish packer and presently as a patrol vessel in the Fishermen's Reserve.

ARMY GETS FINE SHOW

Excellent Variety Program Is Presented Sunday Night

(By Dorothy Garbutt)

Sunday night's concert for the troops at the Capitol Theatre was the best of the local talent concerts to date—not that any individual members were better but there was balance and variety which added immensely to the total enjoyment.

As Cleaver Wilson took ill just prior to the performance Doug Badger substituted at a moment's notice as master of ceremonies and made a very good job of it. Russ Isadore's band opened the show with one of Russ's own compositions, dedicated to Prince Rupert, called "The Muskogee Blues." This was followed by the old favorite "The Pagan Love Song."

Professor McLellan's quizz interlude followed. This time it was a musical quizz and the quizmaster was Don MacLean of the Air Force. The contesting teams were the Navy and the Army with the Army winning by ten points. The stunt which followed the quizz was highly embarrassing for the contestants but evoked great waves of laughter from the audience. It consisted of an army man being given a large square of white cotton and a safety pin and having to arrange it in a fashion upon a scarlet faced partner. Only one man did it correctly and I fancy that was more by guess than by good judgment.

Next came Isobel Connery in a tap dance. Mrs. J. S. Black accompanied. It was nice to have our friend Mrs. Black back with us again and to see a few girl acts after a long dry spell of all man shows. The boys certainly showed their appreciation by applauding again and again both Isobel and Yvonne Riffou who sang and Phyllis Hamblin who recited. Phyllis's act brought forth a lot of good natured ribbing and especially the talents of a corn-fed humorist in the back of the house but Phyllis was equal to it and always just one jump ahead of the boys. At any rate when she "spoke her piece" in her own highly unorthodox fashion, she just about brought down the house. We need more Phyllises in this grim old world.

Sergeant Bob Dillon of the new regiment at the Cy Peck Camp played a pleasing medley of popular numbers on the piano. This was followed by the Ack-Ack boys in stirring hoedown music. They were recalled so often that they ran out of tunes. After this came that genial, smiling southern boy "Red" Painter of the Americans with his gee-tar and the tunes only he knows how to give. I suppose I should be very impartial in these write-ups of the concerts but honestly I could listen to him and his songs for hours, especially to the song about the rooster a-sayin' his prayers and a-layin' down the law to the hens upstairs and how the

The show closed with Russ Isadore's band, featuring Russ and his sax playing the jaunty "Pennsylvania Polka."

Threading through the whole show like something from a larger lunacy were Jack (Bugs) McLellan and his various ladies. In the most unexpected and to say the least inopportune moments came a screaming girl followed by Jack doing a Harpo-Marx - chasing-a-blond impersonation. Finally amid much hullabaloo the ladies caught up with him and the fadeout was Jack being flitted off the stage by dainty Yvonne.

LETTERBOX

JUST SABOTAGE

Editor, Daily News:

I would like to say something about what my friend and I experienced and which lots of men are doing also. My friend and I had been very busy all morning on a certain job. When noon hour came my friend proposed we go to a restaurant for dinner. I agreed. Soon we were at the restaurant. Promptly, very promptly, our meals were before us. These meals might have been fair appetizers but very poor hypnotizers. My friend remarked: "If they are getting less food in the Old Country than we get here, I don't see how they keep going." I was wondering. How can it be expected of certain men to do the work the country demands of them in our great war effort if they have to work on such meals. Is food so scarce that we have to put up with such as that or is it because prices are so high? We know we have to sacrifice to help to win the war. We are behind the war effort in every way. But when it comes to robbing a man's stomach like this just to suit a few individual's pockets I call it nothing else but sabotage.
