NAVY PLANES ACCOMPLISH MISSION

A picture made from one of a squadron of navy dive bombers as the planes were returning to their base after carrying out their mission - the bombing of Jap anti-aircraft installations near Munda airport in the south Pacific. Beneath the tail of our plane, can be seen the mush-rooming clouds of smoke where once Jap guns poured lead at Allied planes.

"Shock Troops" Drain Reich's Best Workers.

BERNE, Switzerland, June 18 The German Army is being reorganized; an effort is being made to replace traditional Prussian automatism with the individualism and personal resourcefulness that characterize the fighting forces of the decadent democracies."

The reform of the Reichswehr is being carried out through the "total mobilization" by which the new German General Staff is combing 1,000,000 men out of the civilian ropulation. The central idea of this reform is to break up the infantry into a large number of small groups or "shock troops" instead of the previous company system. A shock troop will not have more than 20

The individual soldier in these new units will be a highly specialized fighter, with special training in close combat, the use of all technical weapons, and in pioneering Production Difficulties

A widespread opinion in Germany is that if the German Army doesn't succeed in eliminating the Russians this summer next winter will be very bad and may result in defeat for Germany. This opinon is based on growing production difficulties within Germany due to Allied bombings, the lack of skilled workers and the growing strength of the United States and Britain.
