It is reasonable for us to rest assured that at the recent. Moscow conference there was agreement reached on what the next course of action will be after the very important task of liberatig Russia itself has been accomplished. That Russia should not carry on the fight is inconceivable now although there Russia and his Communist might have been some uncertainty on that score a while back. Quite possibly the Russians, once they have rid their own land of the enemy, may turn to Buck come out of hiding and driving the aggressors out of other occupied territory rather than essaying just yet to fight them to foreward our war efforts on their own ground.

The Ambulance Question . . .

Possibly there is a little too much argument as to who should operate the ambulance—the hospital its spots nor will a Communist or the city. Both disclaim the direct responsibility although both, no doubt, are willing to bend every effort towards arriving at some arrangement that will provide a really satisfactory service.

It should not be forgotten that we still have no They have a new aim, so they ambulance so, while discussing how it should be run, say.
