mythical as Adolf's Bible.

Whatever chance our children may have to emerge from the chaos into which a wasteful, synthetic economy is hourly plunging us, will depend upon the future enterprise and productivity of our boys.

If our boys come to think that all to which we aspire is the bunk and that freedom from want and personal security are the sum total of Canadian life, then the jig is up and our next generation will be a servile, spineless race of dependents, no better off than the pitiful peoples for whom we fight.

If our boys crack up, if they come to believe that some magician can give them freedom from want without their working like beavers to earn that freedom, then we are sunk. The boys should be shown before they fall for the hokum of the dreamers, that nobody ever got anything worth while without working for it.

All those who come in contact with the boys have a great responsibility born of the influence which can be exerted upon a growing mind. They should show the lads that the future of mankind depends upon the preservation of the democratic way of life, upon free enterprise, freedom of initiative and the right of hard work and brains to reap a just reward.
