Ald. Thomas Elliot brought before the city council last night the question of two Wartime Housing dwellings which were being erected in the sand pit on Conrad Street and regarding which Ex-Ald. G. B. Casey had a letter in the press last night, stating that the late Jack Inch, the owner of this property, had provided in his will that the lots concerned should be retained as a playground for children. The matter was referred to the finance committee for the purpose of checking up on the title of the property and the authority of Wartime Housing to occupy the lots.

The city council last night deferred until its meeting next week dealing with applications of H. M. Lindseth and D. Scherk for tax sale lots, the bids in each case having been lower than assessed valuations to which the council, by previous resolution, had decided it should adhere in future sales. Mr. Lindseth bid $200 for lot 11, block 31, section 6 and Mr. Scherk $150 for lot 15, block 41, section 7. The feeling was that something should be done in the way of rescinding the decision that no lots should be sold at less than the assessed valuations.
