Miss Phyllis Kennedy is Bride of Rufus McDames at Skeena Crossing

SKEENA CROSSING, April 29—A very beautiful and impressive wedding was solemnized in Kitseguia United Church on Saturday last by Rev. Roy MacDonald of Hazelton when Miss Phyllis Kennedy, daughter of Mrs. Esther Kennedy and the late Mr. Kennedy of Terrace, became the bride of Rufus McDames, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred McDames of Skeena Crossing.

The bride, charmingly dressed in white satin and full length Victorian veil and carrying a bouquet of white roses, was escorted to the church by the village band.

Mrs. Fred MacKenzie was matron of honor. The Misses Anne McDames, Violet Wesley, Flora Bevin and Laura Hudson were bridesmaids. Little Maisie Wesley and Barbara Nelson were flower girls.

The groom was attended by Fred MacKenzie and, as he wished to have a member of the family attending him, Mrs. E. M. Wagner also stood with the groom.

Ushers were Wilfred Weget, William Milton, Albert Douse and Willard Seymour.

The bride entered the church to the strains of the "Lohengrin" Wedding March. During the signing of the register Anne McDames sang "Oh Perfect Love."

After the ceremony the bridal party was driven to the Community Hall, followed by the band, where a reception was held for the entire village. The bride's table was prettily set. The wedding cake in a prominent position was duly cut by the bride assisted by the groom and served by the groom's sisters.

Many friends from Terrace, Cedarvale, Kitwano, Kitwanga, Hazelton and Kispiox arrived to show their esteem for the popular young couple.

About 300 guests sat down to a well prepared luncheon.

In the evening a big dance culminated a perfect day.

Little Interest Shown in Garden

Only half a dozen persons turned up at a meeting called in the Eagles' Hall last night to go into the suggestion of A. O. Olsen, "the friendly gardener," that a community garden be undertaken here. However, Mr. Olsen is still enthusiastic about the idea which is being further gone into. Sites suggested for such a project include one on Ninth Avenue near McBride Street and another on Eleventh Avenue near the Prince Rupert Dairy.

In spite of the small attendance, there was a general discussion of the community garden idea. Fire Chief H. T. Lock, president of the Prince Rupert Horticultural Society, was in the chair.

Grandmas, Mothers Busy in War Work These Days and Survey Gives Reasons

By CHRISTINE TRIPP
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

If any wartime Little Red Riding Hood wants to visit grandma, she can go to a number of Canadian war plants and get the "real McCoy" in grandmas there. She may find mother there, too.

One plant, for example, reports that 18 percent of the several thousand women employed are between 40 and 50 and 12 percent are over 50. According to the women's head of Toronto's Selective Service definitely the older woman is coming to the rescue of many industries these days.

In a recent survey conducted by Selective Service, it turned out that 50 cases in 103 the prime object of the older married women seeking jobs is to supplement the family income. Nine in 100 give patriotic reasons and such.

Again, according to the survey, the sort of work the older married woman has in mind these war-times is by percentage as follows, factory work, 31; general office work, 18; restaurants, 21; others fall into sales, cleaning, laundry and other categories. Twelve percent of the women interviewed had never worked previously. Of those who had their experience was largely in factories.

Variety of Jobs

Weekly in a representative Canadian city Selective Service sends out 400 to 500 of the older women group into jobs of part-time work. The jobs are scaled in accordance with the older woman's strength and the hours she can give from home and other duties. The survey showed that 95 percent of the applicants were carrying on in household duties and intended to continue to.

Jobs for older women include assembly and packing of goods for overseas; factory jobs such as sewing or running a power sewing machine; assisting in the assembly line in war plants taking places in departmental stores releasing younger men and women for service and taking places in offices.

Of older women job-seekers not all are hale and hearty. One group surveyed included a cripple and a sufferer from bronchial trouble.

Women of Courage

Ninety-five percent of the older women interviewed stated that they were not a bit reluctant about applying for jobs—and had no fears or doubts about returning to work or taking up new work.

There is this interesting fact—it isn't the breadwinner going to war that makes the older married women look for a job. Of the older women interviewed—only 10 percent had husbands in the services. Five out of 100 were widows.

At the present time industries are studying the scheme of having short evening shifts in which they could take older women released from home and other duties.

Mrs. E. M. Wagner has returned to the city after attending the wedding in Skeena Crossing of her brother, Rufus McDames, to Miss Phyllis Kennedy. She was accompanied by her sister, Miss Anne McDames, who arrived from Walcott to spend Easter holidays here.

SPORT CHAT

The last year that Ottawa Senators won the Stanley Cup and the N. H. L. championship, 16 years ago this week there was a near riot in the play-off game at Ottawa when the Senators beat Boston Bruins 3-1. The upshot was that Bill Coutu, Bruins defenceman, was suspended from the league for assaulting both referees while several other players were fined. Hooley Smith of Ottawa was also suspended for a month.

Babe Ruth, who had just retired from baseball, attended the major league opening at New York seven years ago Wednesday as a spectator for the first time. The King of Swat then received the most unanimous ovation he ever had in his 23 years of professional baseball. He remains to this day one of baseball's most colorful figures.

PERFUME THAT STAYED

When the tomb of Tutankhamen who ruled Egypt about 1350 B. C. was opened, vases containing quantities of still fragrant aromatics were found.

Water

Water, water everywhere not a drop to drink.

How did it happen, what do you think?

We came home that Saturday night To find the shower shut off tight.

We found we couldn't have a bath. How we did vent our wrath!

We couldn't even have a drink. Of going crazy we were on the brink.

We thought of going to the brink. But it's too cold, don't you think?

Funny things seem to happen, today; Think of the rain that came our way!

There is lots of water, we all know, Just back in the mountains, with all the snow.

Abundance of water is there in the sea, But not a drop of water, was there, for you and me.
