'BIG STREET' IS SHOWING

Originality in Romantic Drama At Capitol Theatre

"The Big Street" co-starring Henry Fonda and Lucille Ball in an engrossing romantic drama of devotion and sacrifice by Damon Runyon, comes to the Capitol Theatre this Wednesday. The picturesque and original character drawing and color sidelights on Broadway life that feature Runyon's popular tales have been embodied in the dramatic comedy.

Fonda has the role of Little Pinks, a bus boy at a Broadway cafe and Miss Ball plays Gloria Lyons, an imperious and selfish night club entertainer who is the apple of Little Pink's eye, but who ignores him completely.

Gloria is the girl friend of a gambler named Ables, but when she two-times him for Decatur Reed, a wealthy socialite, Ables knocks her down a flight of stairs and breaks her back. During her months in hospital Gloria is forgotten by all her friends except Pinks, who goes hungry and borrows from everyone to pay her bills and send her flowers that she thinks come from Reed.

When the hospital grows too expensive, Pinks takes her to his lodgings, striving to keep her from learning that she will never walk again. Fretful, Gloria insists on going to Florida for the winter, and Pinks pushes her there in her wheel chair, with the aid of occasional lifts from friendly truck drivers.

In Miami, Pinks gets a job in a restaurant Ables owns, but despite all he can do Gloria is discouraged. Pinks, desperate, is driven to burglary and blackmail in a final effort to save Gloria's life. He brings retribution on Ables and realization to Gloria of what he has done for her, in the gripping climax of the unusual offering.
