AN ILL-TIMED GESTURE

DRESIDENT TRUMAN'S ill-timed call on the British Government for an immediate policy of "substantial" immigration into Palestine of Europe's displaced Jews is another of the President's blunders illustrating his ineptitude as an international diplomat.

It substantiates the reputation for indescretion which he achieved three weeks ago in hastily placing his approval on the controversial speech made by his ex-Secretary of Commerce, Henry Wallace, before it was delivered in New York's Madison Square Garden. The President later found it expedient to disavow his approval of that speech with considerable executive embarrassment.

In the present incident, Mr. Truman has thrown his nation's official weight against Britain in the delicately balanced Palestine question at a time so close before American congressional elections that his purpose is obvious.

He is deliberately putting Britain "on the spot" to further Democratic party interests in the November elections.

Certainly, no right-thinking person will deny that Europe's displaced Jewish population is deserving of a national home, and no one will deny tlem their claim to Palestine, considering the economic advances that have taken place there since Jewish emigration to that country began after the first World War.

And no one will deny the urgency of the need to settle those unhappy people outside Europe where anti-Semitism still flourishes despite the Nazi defeat.

However, considering the present need for solidarity within the western powers, it is untimely that the United States should place pressure on British policy when Britain is trying to avert open Arab-Jewish conflict in the Holy Land. For Britain to antagonize the Arab world would be to turn the Arabs toward Russia, a situation which would embarrass the United States no less than Britain, considering the magnitude of American interests in the Near East.

In weakening Britain's position in Jewish immigration crisis, the United States is making a pragmatic error which might easily be harmful to the Jews themselves, and certainly can be of no benefit to American national interests; no matter how much it might appear to further the Democratic party.

> That's what was disclosed in a survey, conducted early this year in all parts of the country. 82% of the thousands of Canadians interviewed said, "Yes, we want to keep on saving. We like to save with bonds."

Since no more Victory Bonds or War Savings Certificates will be issued, it was decided to make 'Canada Savings Bonds" available to Canadians. These bonds have many new features that will interest you. For example, you can buy Canada Savings Bonds in units of $50, $100, $500 and $1000. You may buy up to $2000 per person. They pay 23/4% interest each year, for ten years. You can cash Canada Savings Bonds at full face value, with interest, at any time, at any branch in Canada of any chartered

But please remember this point. These are "Serve Yourself" Bonds. This time there will be fewer salesmen. They will not be able to call on everyone. So it's up to you to take advantage of this fine investment opportunity-without delay.

How to Buy You can buy them at any bank; authorized investment dealer; stock broker; trust or loan company-for cash or by the Monthly Savings Plan. Where your employer offers a Payroll Savings Plan you can buy Canada Savings Bonds by regular deductions from your pay.

They want to keep on saving. Canadians, being thrifty folk, like to put something away for a rainy day. They liked the idea of saving by means of Victory Bonds during the war. They want to continue this method of saving.
