More Nazi Deception

The attempt of the high-class Nazi rats in the Nuernberg war crimes trial to scuttle away with their miserable lives by resorting to the subterfuge of blaming it all on their dead chief, Adolf Hitler, will likely avail them little. It is but another example of the deceit and cunning of the trapped criminal and has been seen so often among the Fascist elements that none, much less the international adjudicators, are likely to be misled by any such shallow defence. As the tribunal was told yesterday by one of the German generals no single man could have been capable of conceiving so many crimes, much less seeing that they were carried out.

The late unlamented Adolf Hitler may or may not have been the greatest criminal of them all but he had his willing henchmen and colleagues and the men now arraigned at Nuernberg before a court of international justice, beyond a doubt, among the chief of them. The people of the world who cherish the principles of civilization, democracy and humanity shall not be satisfied unless the carriage of justice is justly dispensed upon them. It is grimly amusing, however, to see the resorts to which the beastly lot will go to save their wretched necks from a fate which will be too good for them.

Nylons Coming, Take It Easy!

February 19th is approaching, when the first nylon stockings will appear in stores across Canada. The men are waiting . . . just waiting to see the fun should their wives, daughters, sisters, aunts, girl friends, even their grandmothers, go temporarily crazy. They expect mob scenes, frenzied women trampling each other, fighting madly to get to the counters. And for what? Just to grab a pair of nylons before some other woman can get them!

Silly, isn't it? Can you blame the men if they are ready to stand by and jeer? If they are planning never to let you forget the time you made "such a fool" of yourself?

Of course, it need not be like that. You can outsmart the men by passing up the first nylons without so much as a backward glance, telling yourself that there'll be plenty of them later, enough for everyone.

Getting one of the first pairs of nylons really isn't a life-or-death matter. Supplies will be coming into stores in a steadily increasing stream as the weeks go by and production of nylon yarn and hosiery gets into high gear. February 19th was selected by the trade as the date when nylon hosiery would first be on sale, because by that time the industry should be running at a rate which will ensure that supplies will go out steadily.

By fall, the supply can be expected to match the demand, and the wearing qualities of nylon mean that replacements won't be needed so often.

Before the year is out, there should be seamless nylons as well. (P.S.—Of course, it might be that the trampling, fighting mob would consist of men).

St. Valentine's Day

Cupid won't have to take such a long shot on St. Valentine's Day with most of the eligible boys on this side of the Atlantic again.

Canada's fair set will have a chance once more to test the old legend which had it that the first man seen by a girl on February 14 was her Valentine for a year. From overseas marriage records it appears that British, Dutch and French girls took advantage of the legend at every opportunity in the last six years but it is Miss Canada's opportunity tomorrow.

How the name of St. Valentine became associated with this special day of expressing one's affections is obscure. There are eight saints named Valentine mentioned in history, but it is probable that the one who is most closely connected with the events of February 14 is that St. Valentine who in 170 A.D. was beheaded at the Flaminian Gate in Rome on the orders of Claudius II, a Roman emperor whose displeasure he had incurred.

The day coincided with the Feast of Lupercalia, a pagan Roman festival of spring which was held in honor of—and here is the love interest—Pan and Juno. A gay lottery was held in Rome in which the young Lotharios of the day drew names of girls from an urn and accepted them in a make-believe betrothal which was supposed to last for a year but they say in many cases led to marriage.

The Romans in Britain perpetuated the Lupercalian festival and in Scotland, the 18th century girl celebrated a type of "Sadie Hawkins" day on February 14, pursuing the man of her choice who became "hers" for a year when captured.

Until the close of the 19th century the custom in Europe was to send love tokens anonymously. Today some send anonymous tokens but these are usually the satirical Valentines popular in America.

Tomorrow some swains and maids will reveal their preference with frilly heart-shaped mementoes but it is not likely that the girls will be as bold as Ophelia when she said in the "Mad Scene" of Shakespear's Hamlet:

"Tomorrow is St. Valentine's Day,
All in the morning betime,
And I a maid at your window,
To be your Valentine."

HOROLOGY IS INTERESTING

Ex-Service Students From All Over Canada Learn Watchmaking at Toronto

By NORMAN ALTSTEDTER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO — After 34 years in the medical branch of Canada's armed forces, M. H. Mills of Truro, N.S., is starting a new career as a watchmaker.

The 51-year-old veteran, who served with the Black Watch in the First Great War and recently left the R.C.A.F. with the rank of flight lieutenant, has "always wanted to take a course in watchmaking."

Mills now is at the Toronto Training and Re-establishment Institute where 3,700 ex-service men and women are enrolled in more than 24 other courses including horology—the art of watchmaking.

Unique in Canada, the course takes a year to complete. There are 69 pupils enrolled at present and some 200 waiting to enter. Students have been attracted from all parts of the Dominion.

J. R. Cadieux of Cornwall, Ont., said he originally intended to go to the United States for a course of study before entering his family's watchmaking business in Cornwall, but he was informed that the U.S. course would cost $2,000.

"When we were in Italy we thought the government were kidding about all they were going to do for us but they have lived up to their promises 100 per cent," Cadieux said.

Students sit at long benches outfitted with shiny, humming lathes. Equipment, valued at nearly $25,000, was donated in part by commercial companies who are interested in raising the standard of watchmaking in Canada.

H. V. Wilkins, chief instructor in horology, says the spirit of students is "excellent." There has been only one man dropped from the course and that was at his own request.

As in other parts of the school, pupils in horology work in shifts. One class starts at 8 a.m. and works to 3 p.m. The second shift starts at 3:20 p.m. and works until 10 p.m. Students alternate every two weeks.

Hungry students may satisfy their craving for tasty dishes at the school cafeteria which is operated by the members of the chefs and bakers course.

The neophyte restaurateurs have a model organization in which to learn the secrets of their trade. Complete with pressure ovens the kitchen of the cafeteria has an adjoining bakery which, in addition to more substantial fare turns out such delicacies as swan-like cream puffs.

The special at noon time is a 25 cent meal which includes soup, a meat dish with two vegetables, two slices of bread, pie and beverage. Students and instructors say that they cannot find anything to equal the fare outside the school.

Seventy-five students, including five girls, work in two shifts in kitchen and classrooms and there is a long list of applicants waiting to take the course.

Mrs. G. A. Dodson, instructor in the restaurant technique, said the busiest time of the day is between 9:30 a.m. and 12 noon when some 2,000 veterans are served at the school snack bar adjoining the cafeteria. It is here that the veterans in training meet between classes to discuss their progress in the job of rehabilitation.

Connecticut-New York Site Favored

LONDON—The permanent site selection committee of the United Nations Organization Monday headed the objection of the Greenwich area of Connecticut against being elected as the permanent headquarters of UNO but decided in favor of a site on the New York-Connecticut border. This has yet to be approved by the General Assembly.

Australia was expected to make a last ditch stand today to put the United Nations headquarters in San Francisco until the peace agency opens its permanent home. Australian delegate W. Hodgson indicated he will open his fight for San Francisco before General Assembly headquarters committee scheduled to meet today to take up the question of an interim site.

The committee voted Monday 22 to 17 that the permanent home should be located in the region of Westchester County in New York.

Sees Failure of Ukraine Demand

LONDON — French Foreign Minister Bidault Tuesday predicted failure of Soviet Ukrainian demand that United Nations security council set up a commission to investigate conditions in Indonesia. Bidault told the council that "the Ukrainian delegation cannot get votes necessary for its resolution so we must look for another solution." No final decision was made immediately on the Ukrainian demands.

BIRTHDAYS DIFFER BUT STILL TWINS

BUENA VISTA, Ga. — Jimmy Wayne and Judy Isom are twins but they have birthdays in different years. Judy arrived at 11:30 last December 30. Jimmy didn't come along until 1:30 a.m. January 1. The father is a farmer and the Isoms have eight other children, seven of them still living at home.

LETTERBOX

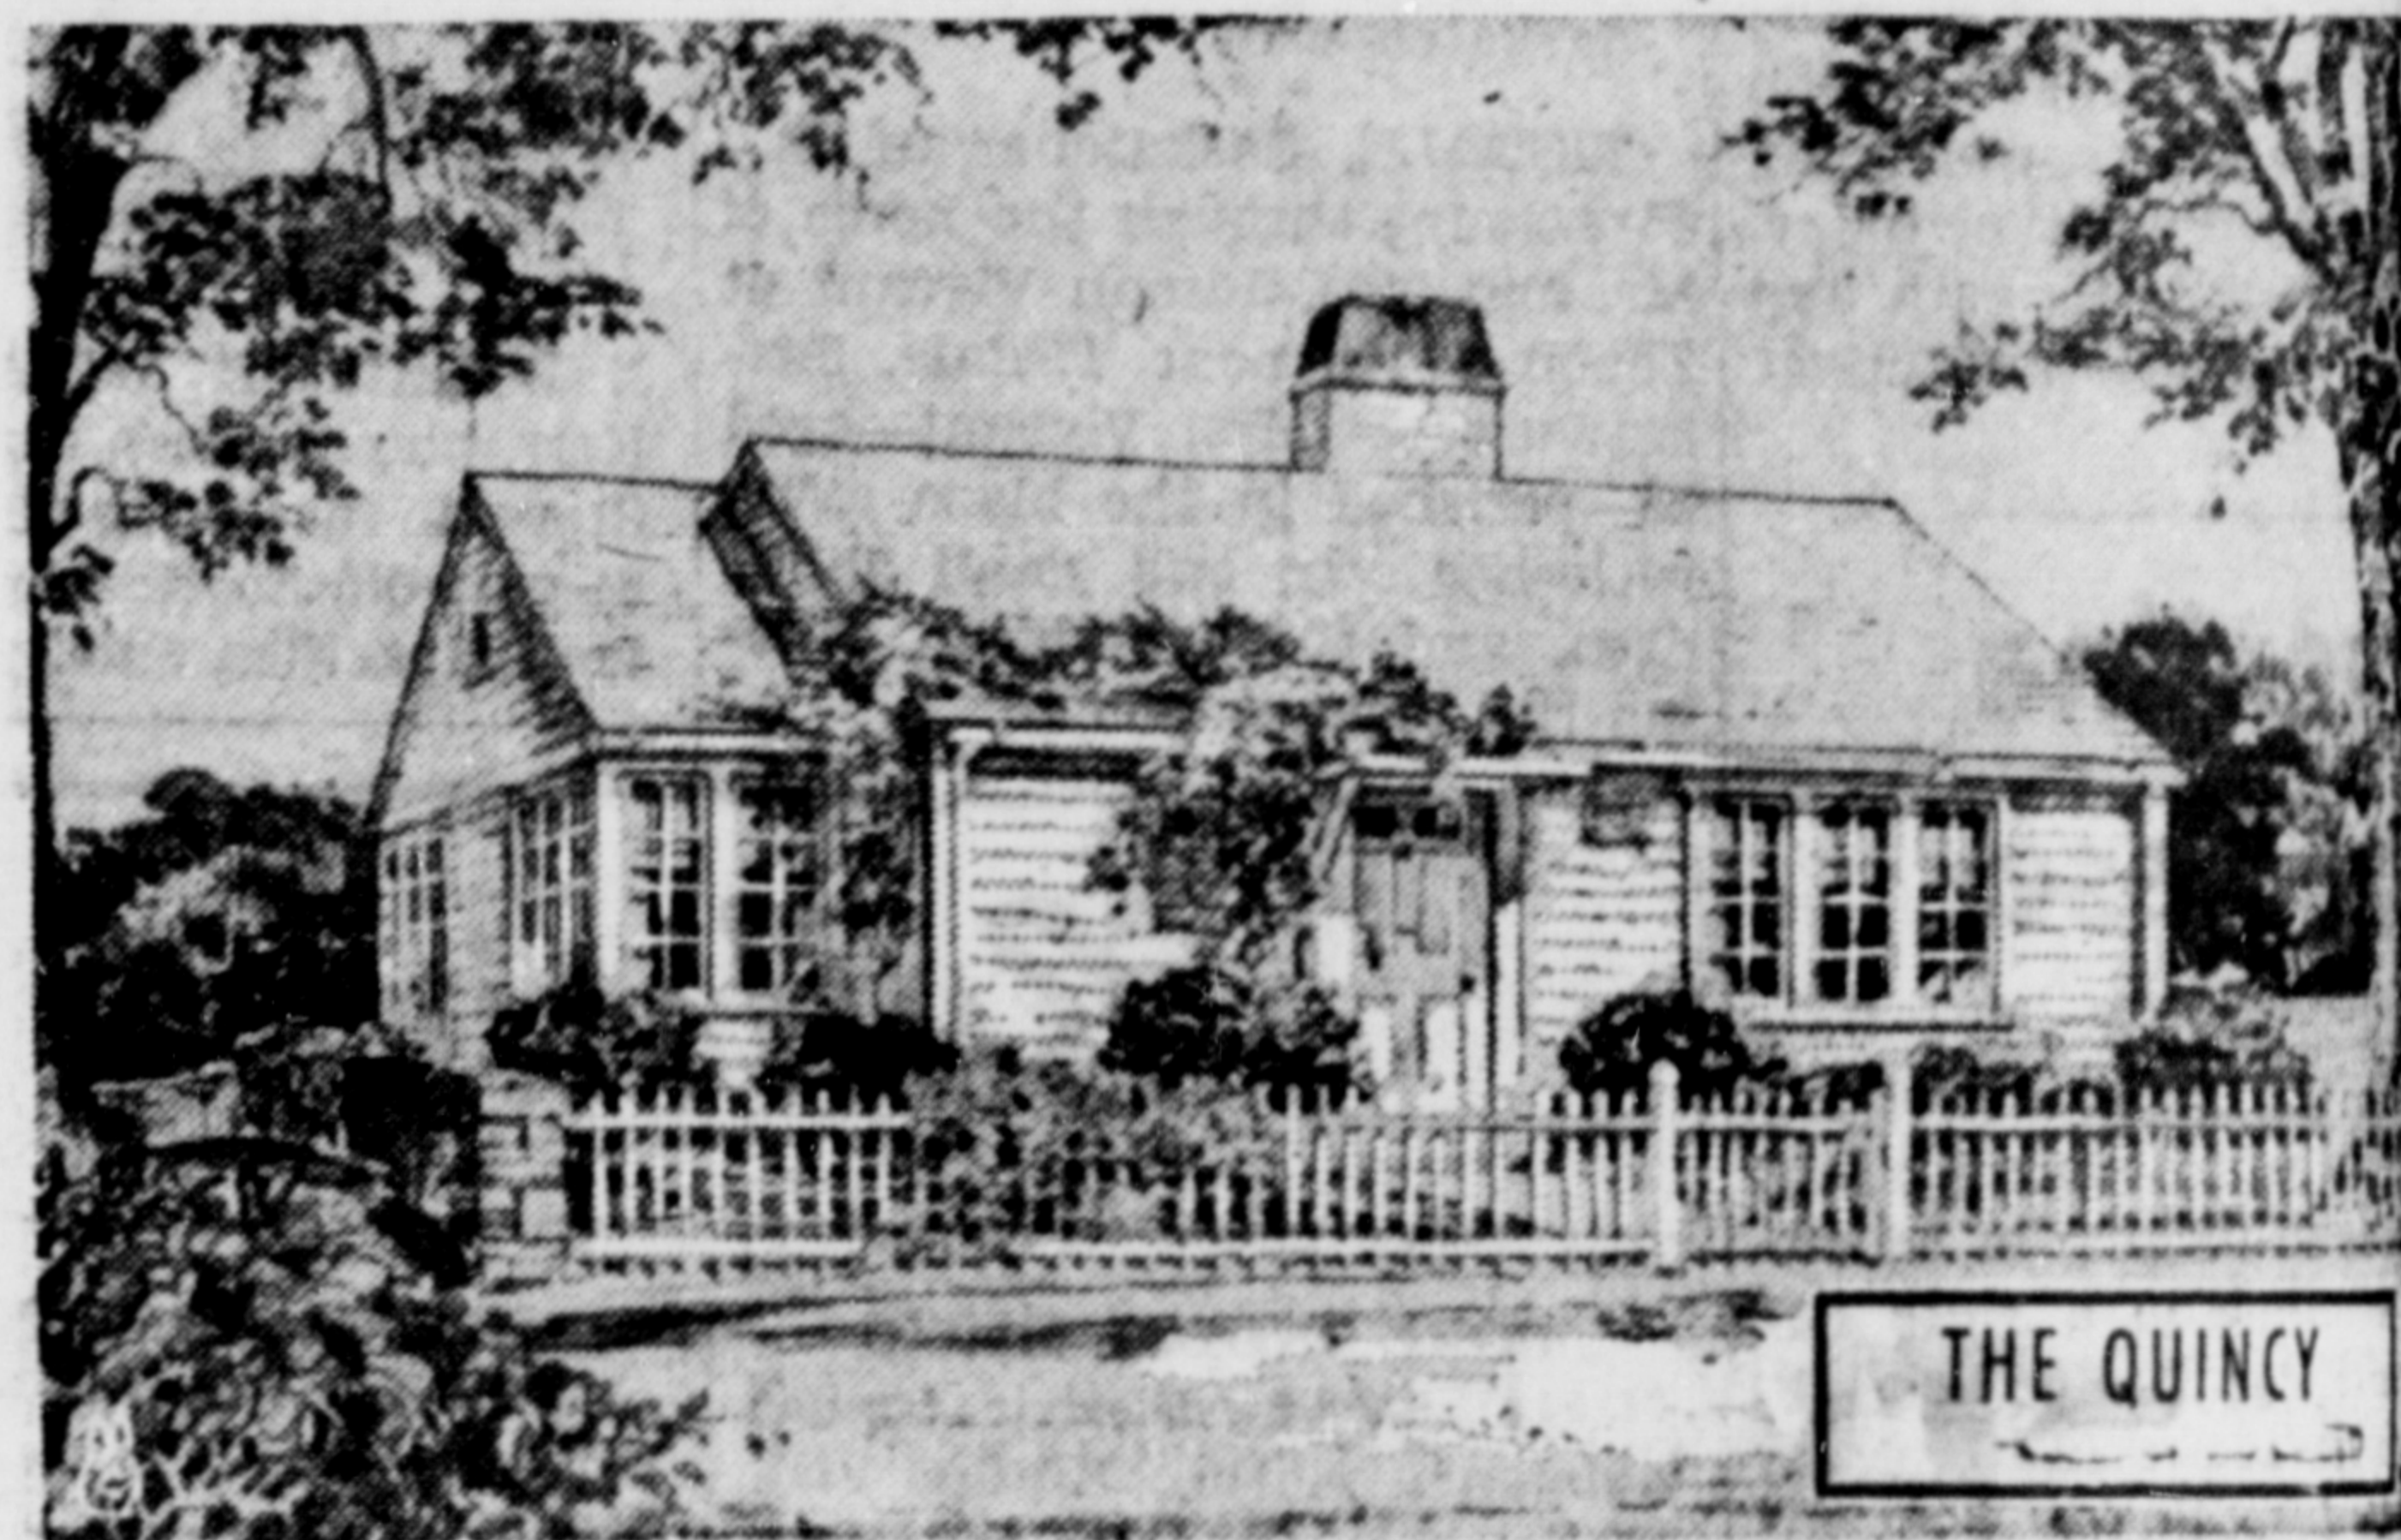

PARK AVENUE ROAD
Editor, Daily News:

I notice the city council gave a few moments to the condition of Park Ave. or Cemetery Road at Monday night's meeting. The portion of that road beyond the point maintained by the Americans up to recent date will compare with the world's worst. The portion used by the Americans was kept in good order by the continued use of the road scraper which is now the property of the city. The question now agitating the minds of car owners is will the city keep that scraper at work on the roads or will the road be allowed to continue its work of car wrecking.

REC DIRECTOR SCORES ACTS OF VANDALISM

Commenting on recent acts of vandalism which have caused the Y.M.C.A. authorities to clamp down restrictions on civilian use of the "Y" war services centre, Rec Director George McGregor said that he "regrets the irresponsibility of a few which has caused these restrictions to be put on."

As viewed by a Daily News reporter the damage to lavatories and gymnasium dressing rooms in the "Y" building appeared nothing more than wanton acts of destruction completely justifying restrictive action on the part of "Y" Supervisor Pete Collins.

Damaged were toilet plumbing fixtures, gym locker and other equipment.

"Since the damage was obviously done while civilians ball players were using the I feel as though the possibility were mine. Actual damage was done individuals whose acts have certainly disqualified them use of this building," McGregor said.

As a result of the an order has gone up prohibiting the use of the "Y" building all civilians except those who can show discharge papers the services.

Only exception to the the Rup Rec training, which will be continuing responsibility of Mr. Mc
