WASTING GOOD PAPER

THROUGHOUT CANADA recently there has been a wave of editorial and civic indignation concerning the sale of suggestive or outrightly obscene literature and comics, some domestic and some imported. Following complaints from Toronto's Board of Control, several vendors volunteered to clean up their stands. In Vancouver the News-Herald made a survey and reported that "the salacious literature that fouls many of Vancouver's newsstands is a home product printed in Canada." In Riverside-Ont., certain comic books were recently banned as "too filthy for child reading."

Much more space than is available here would be required for an analysis of the situation. This much, however, seems indisputable: literature, pictures and comics of debatable standards are polluting Canadian book and newsstands.

For the sake of our youngsters and subnormal adult readers who are incapable of making wise selections in reading entertainment, the control of such matter should be at all times under surveillance. At this particular time, when paper is in short supply, there is even greater need for watchfulness on the part of authorities.

If imported printing fails to measure up to moral standards it is subject to seizure at the border. This leaves the domestic product with greater opportunity for unbridled circulation.

Commerce, education, culture and recreation are placing unprecedented demands on legitimate printing and paper is hard to get. No paper should be used in production of that which is palpably degenerating.

AIRPARK PROGRESS

AIR-MINDED CITIZENS of Great-A er Victoria will be gratified by the announcement that the city's offer of $20,000 for the former naval property at Gordon Head is acceptable to War Assets Corporation and that final arrangements are being made by the council to purchase the land. It requires little stretch of the imagination to see the value that such a holding will assume as civilians turn more and more to private aviation as a means of business and pleasure transport. Nor will its worth in the development of private flying in this community be underestimated.

The case for the property's improvement as a memorial park has been widely circulated in Greater Victoria. The sentiment expressed will command wide interest. It will not, however, enjoy unanimous approval. Nevertheless it must be remembered by those with special interest objections that Victoria's participation in the activities of the expanding air age must be seen in clear perspective. It is unnecessary to ask them where the community would have been if successful opposition had been raised to the development of harbor installations or train facilities.

Residents of the community will find a secondary interest in the question of expansion and maintenance.

SERVICE CLUBS

DOTARY, GYRO AND KINSMEN A service clubs are well established in this city. Their ideals of community service are being constantly put into practice to the benefit of all citizens and more especially to youth. Service clubs do not conflict with but supplement the functions of fraternal orders and the Senior and Junior Chambers of Commerce.

George Bernard Shaw, with his customary wit, when asked many years ago where Rotary was going, replied: "to lunch." The members of service organizations, however, do much more than go to lunch and hear addresses. They initiate affairs that would otherwise be left undone. The fruits of their good works are in evidence in various worthwhile ways. They accept the "ideal of service" as the basis of their reason for existing as an organization.

In the initiation of good community works they give leadership that inspire others to assist them. In the fulfillment of their ideals they derive much happiness which is their reward.

Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King recently stated: "Throughout the growth of our country the newspapers of Canada have made an immense contribution towards an informed understanding of both national and world affairs."

During his recent nation-wide tour of Canada, Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery held up the democratic press as a shining example of what his troops had fought to preserve.

Two shipments have just arrived from the east.

The styles this year run mostly blacks and browns with some of the new designs in fasteners and quite a number have zippers and different kinds of gadgets and fittings inside.

There are a number of new shapes and finishes and the prices run from $7.50 to $25.00.

We have also some of the new plastic bags at somewhat lower prices.

Glad to show you anyhow even if you don't wish to purchase just now.

CANADIAN AIRMAN HONORED-Sherman M. Fairchild, left, chairman of the board, Fairchild Camera and Instrument Corporation, New York, presents the Col. Thomas L. Thurlow navigation award to Wing Commander K. C. Maclure, Royal Canadian Air Force, "For the outstanding contribution to the science of navigation for the year 1945." Mr. Fairchild founded the award in memory of the late Col. Thurlow, internationallyknown U.S. army navigation authority, and the presentation was made at a joint meeting of the Institute of Navigation and the Institute of the Aeronautical Sciences in Washington. Com mander Maclure's contributions to the science of navigation include a new system of measuring direction, using the Greenwich Meridian as the datum; fixing position and the production of a polar astrograph, and a system of course checking by means of an astro compass and polar astrograph.

Mr. Hyndman told of the optimism in the northern towns of Stewart, Anyox and Alice Arm, which are linked definitely with the mining industry. Although the towns actually have not expanded during the last year in the way they hoped, residents there feel that expansion of mining work during the next year will result in growth of the towns.
