WHATS DOING AT PRINCE RUPERT RECREATION COUNCIL GYMS
BY JIM NAST

"The time has come, the Walrus said, 'To talk of many things.'"
In preparation for an interesting community centre program, William Noble, president of the Prince Rupert Recreation Council (Rup-Rec), has appointed four members of the executive committee to make a survey of the recreational needs and interests of the city.

are interested in joining and in which they can assume voluntary leadership. The survey will be the first step taken in organizing the actively program for Prince Rupert's Community Centre.

Mr. Huston, in charge of cultural clubs, will investigate the possibility of beginning a drama club, a music appreciation club and a glee club.

D. Wing will look into hobby clubs or arts and crafts clubs. Hobby clubs have been perennial favorites in recreational programs, including such interesting pastimes as leather work, plastics, wood carving, model airplane building, painting, sketching, photography and a host of others.

The question of beginning a table tennis club, a chess and checkers club and a teen age center comes under the heading of general recreation and will be scrutinized by Ald. T. Norton Youngs.

Fore those interested in the more serious side of recreation, probably adult education will have an appeal. Miss F. Parker is in charge of this part of the survey and short courses in first aid, child psychology, sociology, public speaking, debating, contemporary English literature and other interesting topics have been proposed for consideration.

The activity program that is finally adopted in the community centre will depend upon four factors: the activities that individuals wish to take part in, the needs of the community, the rooms that are available in the building, the voluntary leadership obtainable to direct the various clubs.

"LIVING" MEMORIAL

Suggestion of Troops to be Adopted as Tribute to Fallen
CAPE TOWN, Φ — The plan for a "living" war memorial to South Africa's fallen, originally suggested by troops, was revealed at Pretoria recently and welcomed by public and press. The memorial will be a health foundation aimed at improving the health of the people of South Africa.

Plans are to establish a fund, known as the National War Memorial Health Foundation. Its purposes are: to establish a 'nutritional research institute to investigate nutritional standards particularly with regard to non-Europeans; to assist in the education of all sections of the population in sound food habits; to provide scholarships for research in all fields of inquiry relating to promotion of health and prevention of disease; to provide bursaries for training of personnel for national health service and to support any other projects which will promote health.

An appeal for funds is to be launched on a nation-wide basis in the near future.

The new renting regulations have as yet given no satisfaction. Under the regulations all notices of vacation of dwellings must be made through housing authorities, but owing to the shortage of staff, applications have been handled slowly and many accommodations are at present standing empty.

Ex-volunteers had received more than $4,000,000 in the form of loans and grants and $5,000,000 in war gratuities up to the end of 1945.

The rate of discharge of volunteers from the army has reached 20,000 a month and nearly all these men have been placed in employment. Newspapers have estimated that 120,000 are still in the forces and 90,000 of these are at present in the Union.

The present situation is said to be irritating employers who are short-staffed and soldiers feel they are wasting time. Demobilization is being run on a strict group system and it is considered unfair to release lower group men before higher group men return to the country.
