SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., (P)-Three men armed with sticks and truncheons fought their way through a "Dante's inferno" of savage dogs to arrest their owner and clean up a "dog den" on the outskirts of Southampton.

"Dog Inferno" Invaded

Charles Edwards, 65, was sent to jail for three months for causing unnecessary suffering accidents is about 50 to seven dogs. The inspectors with the pre-war told of savage attacks by dogs chained in kennels made of oi! drums, broken boxes, pieces of road casualties in the wood and old cisterns.

"It was a kind of Dante's inferno of experience," said one.

INFLATION HITS BRITISH SOCCER

LONDON (P)-Blame it on Britain's housing shortage or the post-war "new deal," but bigleague soccer managers willing to part with big sums for players now find inflation has hit the market.

One of the best examples concerns 31-year-old Tom Walker, Hearts' Scottish international inside right who, apparently, had a lot to say in his recent transfer to Chelsea, English League first division club.

Services of Tommy, a big noise in pre-war hotball, were sought by Charlton Athletic. Jimmy Seed, Charlton's manager, made a couple of London-to-Edinburgh trips to make the deal but Chelsea, a fast-minute "dark horse," signed him on the dotted line for £6,000 ($24,000)

It isn't known what Tommy that Tommy's soccer playing and position would net him about £30 a week.

During negotiations in the Scottish city between managers of the clubs concerned. Tommy was called into the discussions and stated the terms and con-

"The sky was the limit, but even that wasn't high enough, Seed told newspapermen on his return to London after Chelsea had obtained the player.

LITTLE CHANGED

By JOHN DAUPHINEE Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (P)-There are forecasts of more sugar and jam in the spring but right now Brit- to be point-free but now a small ain's basic rations are no better, on the whole, than when the war was on.

Tea, candy and meat rations have been boosted a bit cheese, fats and soap have been cut and bread is rationed for the first time in British history. Many foods sold freely during the war have been brought into the "points" rationing system to ent, but prices are high. Peaches, out a ceiling on sales.

Fats—Seven ounces a week compared with eight during the war; an ounce more butter, an ounce less margarine and an ounce less lard or other cooking

Cheese-Two ounces a week, compared with three ounces through most of the war.

Tea—Ten ounces every four

Jam-One pound every four weeks, the regular wartime allotment, or an extra pound of sugar if preferred.

Candy—Fourteen ounces of candy or chocolates every four weeks, two ounces more than the wartime level.

Soap-Three small cakes of soap, or their equivalent in soap flakes or soap powders, every four weeks—one-quarter less than at the end of the war.

Bread-Not rationed at any time during the war but now limited to nine ounces a day for The flying boat Haida Queen the average person. Cake and which went to Stewart Friday flour are included in the nine-

Aside from the staple rationed commodities, many other foods come under the control scheme. available only by surrender of "points" tokens from the ration book. Thirty-two points a month is the individual quota. A pound of prunes takes eight, a box of cereal two, a small tin of firstgrade salmon 20. Dried eggs used tin takes eight points. Half-apound of sweet biscuits is a four-point item.

Eggs are allocated on the ration book-sometimes two a week but more often one or none at all. Oranges and bananas are kept for children only. Fruit has been more plentiful, with supplies flown in from the contineven late in the season, were about a shilling (20 cents) apiece.
