PATTULLO - -Covers the B.C. Legislature

Woodstock, Ontario, before he came west in the Gold Rush days to become for almost half a century one of British Columbia's most prominent figures, finally achieving to the Premiership of the province, is back in newspaper work again. The Daily News is pleased to announce that Mr. Pattullo has agreed to supply us with his commentary from the press gallery at the Legislature in Victoria. It will be presented daily as long as the session lasts.)

VICTORIA (By T. D. Pattullo) - W. T. ("Lovable Bill") Straith, one of Victoria's members of the legislature, says the province should be prepared to assist municipalities in the construction of air fields.

Why should Air Lines hold up service to a community until the community provides it with an air strip? It is about time that objection should be taken to a circle of hold-ups. Ottawa holds up the provinces with a financial weapon.

The province holds up the municipalities and the land-

Capital holds up an inert and inarticulate public. Unions hold up capital.

And the public, forced to take medicine it does not like, absorbs prodigious quantities of soft coap prescribed by the quacks and available, notwithstanding the scarcity of fats yet, perhaps, understanable through the superfluity of fatheads.

D. Wood, governor of the Prince Rupert men's lodge, and by M. M. Welch, past governor of the Ketchikan lodge and head of the visiting delegation.

Mrs. C. McIntyre, acting senior regent of the local chapter, Women of the Moose, extended warmest greetings to the visitors and Mrs. Anne Schrum brought greetings from chapter 769, Women of the Moose, Ketchikan.

Acting Mayor Robert McKay and W. F. Stone, president of the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce, extended the visitors the full hospitality of the city in brief speeches.

The Ketchikar visitors, who sailed Sunday to return north in the packer Dart, which they had chartered for the trip, were Mrs. Austina Turner, Miss Nancy Oaksmith, Mrs. Minerva Selig, Mrs. Anne Schrum, Mrs. Flora Nygaard, Mrs. Margaret Wickstrom, M. M. Welch, Alfred Rogers, Elwood Cartwright and N. R. Drewes.

Of exceptional interest among the visitors was Edgar Kerr, Ketchikan's oldest member of the Moose lodge. A picturesque man wearing a beaded buckskin jacket and a white Van Dyke beard, he was 81 years old and hale and hearty. He entertained the gathering with a humorous anecdote for which he received an enthusiastic round of applause.

During the interval between the banquet and the dance, the gathering entertained itself with community singing. Andy Mc-Naughton was pianist during the song period and SALESMAN in local district to dancing, when he was joined by
