BOWLING ENDS

Patrons of the Fifth Avenue Recreation Hall bowling alleys played their final games there on Sunday, getting in some hot licks before the alleys closed for good on Sunday night The recreation hall, operated by Fred Ernewein, has been taken back by Wartime Housing and is expected to be turned over to War Assets for disposal.

Practically all the patrons of the alleys called in sometime during the day, and the balls rolled without ceasing until almost midnight. High score for mixed five pins was made by Johnny Pallister, who ran up

Mr. Ernewein thanked his guests for their patronage in the past and announced that, in the near future, he would start up a new bowling alley in the downtown district.

The single person need not torego that tavored steak, for with a little planning the weekly meat ration will permit such indulgence. Three tokens should procure one of ample size for Sunday dinner. By lopping off the end piece there will be the wherewithall to mince and mix with left-over vegetables or canned soup in an individual casserole and top with a frill of potato for Monday's pie de luxe. French toastwich is a pleasing way to cope with meatless Tuesday — and to use up that stale bread which it behooves each and everyone not to waste these days. Simply sandwich a goodly portion of cheese between two slices of bread, dip the whole into beaten egg and milk, and cook to a delectable brown in a small amount of fat. A spiced tomato sauce will give it a touch of tang, and a green vegetable will round out a nutritious meal. Purchase of half a pound of veal cutlet and some unrationed kidney will take care of two meals. Part of the cutlet can be breaded for Wednesday, the remainder, along with kidney, transformed into a succulent stew for Thursday. Fish on Friday will bring the goodness of the sea to your table. For end-of-the week hospitality, kidney beans, now available, will stretch half a pound of ground beef into a chile con carne serviceable for four which should quickly win friends and influence appetites. It calls for a tossed salad and oven-hot muffins, and a spring rhubarb dessert for a note of cheer.

Happy, heart-warming, hilarious is the way they describe 'Junior Miss," starring Peggy Ann Garner and a brilliant supporting cast, which comes as the feature offering to the screen of the Capitol Theatre here today and tomorrow.

"Junior Miss" is the story of a typical American family and particularly the 13 - year - old .111/2 daughter who is blessed with a vivid imagination that translates ever the most ordinary. every-day incident into a superdramatic or romantic situation .231/2 | parallelling some movies she has seen. When she spots her father kissing his boss's daughter, she immediately sees a love triangle i and, in order to save her moth-.131/2 er's heart from being broken, swings into action with fast, furious and devastating results. How she sends her family into a frenzy of confusion with almost disastrous results makes for uproarious fun from start to
