DEVELOPMENT OF PEACE RIVER AND RUPERT

Winnipeg and what should be our port on the Northern Pacific. But, while we are lost in wonderland trying to find just why we are balled up as we are, we would do well to turn our attention to other sections of Canada and observe how they have fared since completing the amalgamation which created the railway position we are now in.

We have just heard of the reduced train service now on the six divisions between Jasper and Prince Rupert. We also know that the former Canadian Northern main line between Winnipeg and Port Arthur, that was once travelled by the crack trains—the "Superior Express," is now served by a tri-weekly schedule.

May I suggest to our western M.P.'s on their next trip to our capital they might go by what was to be the despatch route between Winnipeg and Quebec City, and check up the class of train they would be on, and they might write and tell us as to the hotel accommodation at such points as Nakina, Hearst and Cochrane where they are obliged to stop over night in transit.

May I say I am citing these facts to demonstrate the overshadowing interest of both our railway systems in Montreal and Vancouver, and the main lines between. We are only continuing to waste valuable time expecting either of our railway systems to build our Pacific railway and establish our port on the Northern Pacific for they just will not do it.

When the G.T.P. was in the making some 40 years ago, the Trans-Siberian railway was the talk of Europe and Asia. That railway established its port at Vladivostok on the Japanese Sea where the Japanese current came from. The late Charles Melville Hays was the driving force in the G.T.P. project. Mr. Hays' great ambition was the establishing of a line of fast boats between Prince Rupert and Vladivostok — thus the $3,000,000 shipbuilding plant and floating dry dock at Prince Rupert, now idle, or nearly so.

Here it might be well to remember Russia is no more the land of the Czars. The Russia of today is a new-born nation and she has received a wonderful baptism in European and American ways of commerce. When Russia was wrapped in a life and death struggle with the foe of the world she knocked on our door and our door was opened. When she asked for bread, we did not hand her a stone. When she asked for planes, the planes winged away. When she asked for tanks, the tanks went rolling on. When she asked for guns they were soon belching destruction on the enemies of the world—nor did we tarry to discuss the odds. Having established that mound

Career of New Manager of Canadian National Steamships

Captain R. A. Clarke, new general manager of Canadian National Steamships, was born at Brigus, Newfoundland, in 1893. As a youth he spent his summer vacations at sea with his father who was both shipbuilder and ship's captain. Shortly after the outbreak of the First World War, he joined the Royal Naval Reserve, serving in the Atlantic.

Coming to Canada in 1920, Captain Clarke joined the C.G. M.M. He served as master on a number of the Canadian government merchant vessels and in 1930, was appointed assistant marine superintendent at Kingston, Jamaica. Returning to Canada in 1933, he served successively as captain of the Lady Hawkins, the Prince David, the Lady Drake and the Prince Henry. He was appointed assistant general manager of the line in August 1940.

R. B. Teakle, retiring general manager, a native of Quebec City, has had more than fifty years of general and executive experience in the steamship world. After serving a number of important posts with the Allan Line, he was appointed manager of the Canadian Government Merchant Marine in 1919, with headquarters at Montreal at a time when one ship of the fleet had been launched and others were under construction. He became manager of the C.N.S.S. in 1937. In the course of his work, Mr. Teakle had visited most parts of the world.

of friendship with our neighbor beyond the waters of the Northern Pacific, which is a strong nation today and will be mighty power of commerce tomorrow, does it not behoove us to cultivate that friendship by extending our trade with our neighbors through their ocean port and terminal of their great railway?

As Vladivostok is 1,000 miles north of Hong Kong why not allow the C.P.R. to continue the monopoly of the latter port while we proceed to consolidate the odds and ends of rail line we have referred to into thoroughfare through our country including the south terminal of the Hudson's Bay railway and procure a few of the government's surplus ships and establish a complete and independent transportation organization between and including Vladivostok, Prince Rupert, our Peace River country, Prince Albert and Winnipeg, and thus boost all our country out of the "back-concession" stage and place us on a par with other parts of this North American continent.

SUBWAY HIDES ART TREASURES

Shirt Worn by Charles I Part of Cache Stored During War

LONDON — Buried under London in an underground railway tunnel is a treasure hoard over which thousands, unsuspecting, walk every day.

The underground railways of London have provided safe hideouts for many of Britain's most valued treasures during the war.

Scattered in disused corridors are a variety of treasures, including the shirt that Charles I wore at the Whitehall scaffold, stained glass windows from St. Margaret's and priceless antique jewelry which survived the Great Fire of London in 1666.

Not one item has suffered damage. Many are back on show in the museums but War Office officials state it will be some time before the treasures from the British Museum can be restored.

INTERIOR WAGE NEGOTIATIONS ARE TERMINATED

PRINCE GEORGE — There was abrupt termination of negotiations between Local 1-424, International Woodworkers of America, and the Northern Interior Lumbermen's Association when union representatives insisted on changing from a year-to-year basis for wage scales to one allowing only 30 days' notice by either party.

The operators contend that it would be no agreement at all and that the 30-day provision would constitute a constant unknown factor in predicting costs and would prevent them from determining in advance programs in the woods and milling operations.

Union Representative Ernie Dalskog pointed out that since negotiations got under way, federal controls have been lifted on 300 items of consumer goods and that it would be unfair to tie some 900 unionists to a year's agreement with the fear of inflation to be recognized.

POST-WAR PROBLEMS

Interesting Drama Shows In "Vacation From Marriage" At Capitol Theatre

Starring Robert Donat, the noted English screen actor, Deborah Kerr, "Vacation From Marriage," a drama dealing with the domestic problems of a young couple reunited after war service is being featured here today and tomorrow.

Donat, before going to a dull clerk placidly married Miss Kerr and living a respectable existence in a London apartment. While he is serving in the Navy, she joins the Women's Army Corps, each becomes a greatly changed personality, dreading the actual resumption of their married life. How their reunion is solved makes for a story with interest and dramatic intensity.

Background for the movie London through the war years interwoven with the lives of Donat and Miss Kerr. Many of the sequences actually shot at naval establishments and some of the scenes were filmed during such events as D-Day, the liberation of Paris and the invasion of Germany.

The supporting cast includes many prominent figures of English stage and screen.

Four out of six prizes for best insurance company advertising were won by daily paper adds of Canadian companies in a recent contest new York which included entries from all over the continent.
