Changes Made In Qualification—Restriction of Dues Exemption

At the regular monthly meeting of the Canadian Legion held last Wednesday night, amendments passed by the 1946 Dominion Convention, held recently at Quebec City included certain changes made in membership qualifications for ordinary members, associate members and honorary members.

The resolution passed by the local branch on July 9, 1946, granting all local boys, who had served overseas and were entitled to wear the Canadian Volunteer Service Medal with clasp, one year's free membership in the local branch was rescinded as from midnight, July 31, 1946. After that date, only local boys, with the same qualifications, who join the Legion within three months of the date of their discharge will be entitled to the one year free membership privileges. These rulings apply to both sexes of members of the Armed Forces.

SAVOY TAKES 7-4 VICTORY

Defeated Watts and Nickerson in Baseball League Play

Savoyn ran up its second straight win in the city baseball league last night before a small collection of fans who looked lost in the bleachers. The Hotelmen overcame Watts and Nickerson 7 to 4 in a seven inning fixture which featured the best resistance that Savoyn has seen to date.

Savoyn moundsman southpaw Don MacDonald pitched the game through, showing fair control, and allowing seven hits by the Clothiers. Pulling himself out of several holes, MacDonald managed to maintain general dominance over the situation throughout the game. His most spectacular achievement was to strike out Dahl, a hard-hitting, experienced player.

Watts and Nickerson made a shake-up at the first of the third inning by sending Dahl in from third base to relieve Moore as catcher after the Hotelmen had scored two runs. Jake Antone moved from left field to third, and Moore went to left field. Major scorers were Bruce Simundson and Nivk Pavlikis for Savoyn, with two runs each. Pavlikis scored in the second and sixth and Simundson made the circuit in the third and fourth innings. De Blais of the Clothiers tallied two runs, one in the fifth and one in the seventh.

SHORT SPORT

Don Bradman, great Australian batsman, made a record score for England-Australia test match cricket 14 years ago yesterday at Leeds, England, when he hit up 334 runs. His mark still stands as the best test match score for an Australian, but Len Hutton of England scored 364 in a 1938 test.

The heavyweight boxing title, vacant for two years, was awarded to Max Schmeling 16 years ago tonight when the German defeated Jack Sharkey on a fourth-round foul in an elimination bout at New York's Yankee Stadium. There had been no claimant for the title since Gene Tunney retired undefeated after knocking out Tom Heeney in 1928.

Centralize Sports

The desirability of having a central athletic coordinating council in the city should be given serious consideration by all branches of athletics. The value of such a council would be demonstrated in such an event as the forthcoming visit of H.M.C.S. Uganda.

In the past a visit of a naval ship has usually resulted in a series of athletic contests. There might be boxing, tennis, fastball, baseball football, lacrosse or basketball. As far as the ship is concerned there is a central sports committee under the sports officer. In this way all the ship's sporting activities are correlated.

Now, if there were a city co-ordinating committee, the ship's committee could make all arrangements through it. This city committee might well consist of a member of each athletic organization in the city. This council would know what grounds would be available and have them in shape. There would be no overlapping or duplication of contests and no conflict as a result of one organization making arrangements without other organizations being aware of such a fixture.

The headquarters could well be in the Civic Centre. That would be the logical place. But the movement should start from the various local sports committees. It is hoped that somebody will have the initiative to make the first move. It cannot but be all for the best of local sports.
