Waterfront Whiffs

Canadian Pacific steamer Princess Norah will arrive in Prince Rupert Monday morning, north-bound on her final voyage of her summer Alaska tourist schedule. Under command of Capt. Graham Huges, the Norah has been on a 10-day schedule to the Alaska ports, alternating with the Princess Louise, and has carried hundreds of passengers during the last three months. She will do fill-in service for other vessels in the south and get her annual overhaul during the winter.

Fighting Tuna

An unofficial "Battle of the Atlantic" is being waged off the Nova Scotia coastline as deep-sea anglers match strength and experience against the cunning and fighting spirit of the giant bluefin tuna.

Big-game professional sportsmen have always regarded the boated a 782-pound bluefin in 30 minutes, one of the fastest times ever recorded for landing a bluefin of more than 700 pounds.

Divisional Headquarters
ROOM 14
Smith Block Prince Rupert, B.C.

In Nova Scotia the history of the sport goes back to 1871 when Thomas Pattilo caught several giants, then known as albacore and horse mackerel. For equipment he used 32 fathoms of ordinary cod-line, home-made reel and an eight-inch hook.

Record Catches

Credit for development of a rod and line of sufficient strength and flexibility is given Capt. Laurie Mitchell. The late Zane Grey, famous American author, came to Nova Scotia attracted by Mitchell's efforts and after considerable fishing landed a 758-pound tuna to capture the world's record.

It remained the top catch until 1933 when Mitchell landed a larger tuna across the Atlantic in the North Sea but this again was broken by Thomas Howell who landed a 956-pounder off Liverpool, N.S., in 1934. This record is still unbroken.

The fish run in great size off the Nova Scotia coast where specimens weighing more than half a ton are frequently harpooned. Fish weighing 800 pounds are not uncommon.

They take the bait—usually herring—easily but from that moment on the angler is in for a fight. Their characteristic battle is a series of long dives, each ending near the surface and followed by a powerful dive to the depths from which they must be urged by skillful "pumping."

As a general rule the best fishing months are July, August and September but they remain fairly plentiful in October and have been taken as late as November.

Their movements follow closely the movements of herring and mackerel, their chief feed.

At the Schools

A Department Open to All the Schools of Prince Rupert and District

KING EDWARD

The repair work on the roof of the school is finished and the boys of Grades 4, 5 and 6 had a clean-up campaign of the yards

Miss Peat, Miss Beale and Mrs. Kullander still have large rooms of 49 pupils or over.

Miss Johnson, Public Health Nurse, has inspected Grades 4 and 5 and found the health generally good.

Miss Leslie of the Health Unit addressed an assembly of Grades 4, 5 and 6 on the working of a public health unit. This was followed on Friday by Mr. Harper, sanitary inspector, showing a picture of the Health Unit in action.

The boys have been organized into four football teams and games are played each night. The captains are Robert Dunn, Harry Mostad, Gerald Paterson, Roy Pedersen.

The classrooms are vying with one another as to which can get the most members for the P.T.A.

The following are tagging for the I.O.D.E. today: Barbara Hyndman, June Henry, Dorothy Marshall, Helen Kondodurk, Joyce Potile, Shirley Hougan, Ross Martin, Donald Leighton, Harry Hogan, Rose Anderson.

The school was visited by Trustees Mrs. Roper and Mrs. Becker and by Inspector Hyndman. The following teachers were also visitors: Mr. Bateman, Miss Howse, Miss Hall, Mrs. Dunn, Mrs. Knutson.

A new flag has been received from Victoria and is now flying from in front of the school.

Reorganization of classrooms is completed and pupils are progressing in all subjects.

J. R. Pollock, director of visual education, visited the school with Mr. Hyndman and was pleased to see an educational picture being shown to the upper grades.

CONRAD STREET

The end of the third week of September finds the pupils and staff of Conrad Street School on the way to completing a successful term. The enrolment has reached the 200 mark and there are now six teachers on the staff. Mrs. D. R. Smith has been appointed as Division 6 teacher, taking the overflow from the primary rooms.

Last Friday the teachers enjoyed a "Get Acquainted" tea given by the staff of King Edward School. Miss Moxley, who was in charge of the refreshments, was assisted by Miss Beale and Mrs. Kullander.

Mr. Wilsley, who has been janitor since the school was built, left Prince Rupert Thursday evening for an extended visit in the States. He is succeeded by Wilf Garbutt, who served with the R.C.A.F.

Many activities have been planned for the enrichment and growth of the young citizens of the east-end of Prince Rupert.
