the prosecutions at Nuremberg. But it is even more important that these precedents be given the sanction of law itself.

DeGaulle's Future

Whether or not Gen. DeGaulle has removed himself from the French political situation "irrevocably," as he has said, or otherwise, may not be revealed for a while yet. Vincent Auriol may fill the bill as the new interim president of the provisional government. This leaves the communist and socialist parties combined to carry on the business of the country. The new president will have the task of maintaining working arrangements between parties which bitterly divided on interpretation of their respective ideologies.

If adequate unity dawned on the political scene in France under Auriol, he may become the real president after the election four months hence.

On the other hand, if the rival political parties continue to struggle for power it is not unlikely that General DeGaulle will be the favorite of the French people on the first chance they are given to elect a President. For he asked the various parties which combined to defeat his plans to find some one else to accept the responsibilities for maintaining some sort of unity among the existing political blocs so that France might be able to pursue an orderly path toward stability in the fullest sense of the term. Since foreign and colonial policies are part and parcel of French domestic policies, it is by no means certain that the last has been heard of the man who spoke for France in the dark days of 1940—his "irrevocable" retirement notwithstanding.

Favorable Report—Navy League Executive In Session

At the regular monthly meeting of the executive of the Prince Rupert branch of the Navy League of Canada the annual report issued as a result of the annual inspection by the Navy officials was considered. It was stated that the "corps" is in excellent condition. The showing of the ratings in various subjects were all very favorable with the use of "walkie talkie" in signalling outstanding. Apart from the training in purely cadet activities the inspecting officers noted that the self-reliance of the members was very good.

Representatives of the Women's Auxiliary to the Navy League were present and their report on the past year's activities was enlightening and showed what a great deal of work the women had done. An assessment was made to enable them to carry on with the making of ditty bags. This will enable any emergency to be met without delay.

The annual meeting of the Prince Rupert branch of the Navy League will be held on February 26 when the annual reports will be presented and the election of officers will take place.

The matter of providing further sports equipment and arranging sports activities was considered and it is expected that substantial progress will be made in this connection immediately.

Those in attendance in addition to S. W. Woodside, who was in the chair, were Mrs. J. R. Elfert, Mrs. J. E. Boddie, Mrs. L. Holtby, Lt.-Com. Alex Mitchell, and J. Forman, J. S. Wilson, D. Wood and E. T. Applewhite, secretary.

Lieut. Joe Naylor Is Back From Overseas

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Naylor had the pleasant experience yesterday of hearing the voice of their son for the first time in three years following the arrival at Vancouver of Lieut. Joseph Naylor from overseas. After three years service overseas in Italy, Germany and Holland with the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps, Lieut. Naylor made the crossing of the Atlantic on the Ile de France. He was met at Vancouver by his wife, the former Betty Wood. They will make a trip to Los Angeles by motor before returning to Prince Rupert.

BICYCLES OUST RUNNERS
NAIROBI, Kenya, (P)—A link with the past has been broken by the purchase of two bicycles and the pensioning off of two old men employed many years in the government service as runners. They formerly carried the mail to the district commissioner of the Tuikhana desert country and instructions to the head men.

"UNCLE HARRY" STRANGE DRAMA

Coming to Screen of Capitol Theatre Here On Monday and Tuesday

"Uncle Harry," a strange drama of suspense involving brother and sister in an emotional drama, is the feature picture coming to the screen of the Capitol Theatre here on Monday and Tuesday next. George Sanders, Geraldine Fitzgerald and Ella Raines head the cast. Locale of the action is a small New England community and the story relates the break-up of the town's most respected old family when a brisk New York fashion expert falls aggressively in love with a retiring textile mill employee, Miss Raines and Sanders appearing in these leading romantic roles.

There is an unusual background for the crime of passion and the picture has many different angles which makes it all the more different.

Law and Nations

As the Nuernberg trials continue, it is natural that day-to-day evidence should focus on the grim and depraved record of Nazidom's arch-criminals. But when history has forgotten even the names of the flagitious defendants, it will recall that in these days there were established new concepts of the common law among nations.

For we are in a period which parallels much in the development of the common law as it defines the rights, offenses, and duties of individuals.

At Nuernberg we are applying to the conduct of nations the same logic which established internal common law. Lord Wensdale in a now classic definition spoke of the common law as "a system which consisted in applying to new combinations of circumstances those rules which we derive from legal principles and judicial precedents."

And Mr. Justice Jackson, in his own statement to the War Crimes Tribunal, conceding that although there was no precise legal precedent for the tribunal, declared that "international law grows, like common law, through decisions reached from time to time 'in adapting settled principles to new situations.'"

It is important to make clear that legal precedents do, in fact, exist for

MANIFESTATIONS OF GOD

"I Am."—Exodus 3:14.

(By REV. CANON W. F. RUSHBROOK)

God, the creator and sustainer of all things visible and invisible, with the two small words, "I Am," revealed to Moses his awful majesty.

The Man Jesus, God incarnate, manifested his divinity with the same words, "Before Abraham was, I Am."

But God manifested Himself otherwise than by word. David said "The Heavens declare the glory of God," "I am fearfully and wonderfully made." Jesus, too, revealed his personality not only by word of mouth in such utterances as "I and my Father are one," "I am the bread of life," "I am the water of life," "I am the Light of the World," "I am the resurrection and the life." The truth of these professions was so manifest in his human contacts that one man said: "We have found the Messiah," another: "thou art the Christ the Son of God," another: "my Lord and my God." A heathen soldier cried out, when he saw the maltreated Jesus die His agonizing death with only words of love and forgiveness for his slayers, "surely this was the Son of God." These confessions came not as a result of Jesus' pronouncements concerning himself but were the outcome of purely human social contacts.

We may make our professions, religious or otherwise, but, consciously and unconsciously too, we are continually revealing our true selves, telling the world just what "I Am."

Obviously we cannot say truly of ourselves, "I Am." That expresses oneness or completeness, per se, which can only be connoted of the Divine. We, on the other hand, as creatures, "are part of all that we have met." Nevertheless we too are continually revealing our true selves to the world. We cannot escape it.

A businessman advertises for office help, the applicant to apply in his own handwriting. Why does such a man often pick up one of those letters of application, scrutinize the envelope and, without even opening the letter, tear it in two and throw it into waste basket? Perhaps the stamp is awry. There may be no periods after initials or other abbreviations. The "I's" may not be dotted nor the "t's" crossed. His business acumen is at stake. He has no room in his office for carelessness or indifference. Yet the applicant may have been an expert professionally.

Likewise the observant world has no use for professing Christians who do not express their profession by a Christ-like life. We may know our Bibles, be familiar with and be loyal to the discipline of our special religious organization but Christianity is not Biblical or religious knowledge although largely based upon them. Christianity is a definite and peculiar life which always and only reveals the indwelling spirit of God. As Jesus, through His manhood, revealed the nature and love of God so we through our Redeemed personalities must reveal the Christ to the world in which we live. Only so shall we attain to spiritual and mental peace ourselves and inspire others to seek the same, from the same source God, through Christ.

LINER VISITS 24 COUNTRIES

LIVERPOOL, Eng., (P)—The Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Scotland, which once cruised the Pacific as the Empress of Japan, has travelled more than 500,000 miles as a British troopship.

During the war she made three complete trips round the world, was the temporary home of 220,000 troops, including 50,000 Canadians, and visited 24 different countries. Thousands of servicemen, travelling to and from the war, cut their names and initials into the ship's rails, which it is suggested should be preserved as a memento of the Empress's war service.

LITTLE SUN IN JANUARY

Prince Rupert has just gone through the dullest and wettest January in five years, but even at that January weather conditions were a considerable improvement over those in December.

Last month, the sun showed brightly for 14.7 hours which, although it was hardly long enough for anyone to acquire a coat of tan, was better than December, when only 4.5 hours of bright sunshine were recorded by the meteorological department.

In January, 1945, there were 30 hours of bright sunshine, while during the same month in 1944 there were 23.6 hours and in January, 1941, 67.8 hours.

Rainfall in January totalled 13.5 inches, four inches more than in January, 1945, and six inches more than in December, 1945. Rain fell during 25 days. Maximum temperature during the month was 49 degrees while the minimum was 26 degrees. Average temperature for the month was 37.7 degrees.

Extreme barometric pressures recorded were a maximum of 30.5 inches on January 10 and a minimum of 28.8 inches on January 4.

Greatest wind velocity was 46 miles an hour from the south-east on January 6.
