India Takes Steps To End Illiteracy

NEW DELHI-A universal system of free, compulsory education for India has been recommended by the National Planning Committe, established by the Indian National Congress is. 1938. Pandit Jewaharlal Nehru is chairman of the committee. It is proposed to spend $660,000,000 annually on this scheme and to conscript 250,000 educated Indians to carry out the plan.

The scheme also includes an gests that the cost of the cam- | making family purchases. paign could be met by the funding of private agricultural debts through the state at a lower rate of interest than at present.

It is estimated that at present only 12 per cent of the population of India is literate, and the intention is to eradicate illiteracy over a period of eight years.
