are on their way back home when they get caught.

Adult salmon which are vigorous enough to get back to t he spawning grounds lay their eggs in streams tributary to some lake. The eggs are laid in the fall, and hatch the following spring. Knowing that the percentage is against her, the female salmon deposits plenty.

According to Dr. Pritchard, one pair of salmon are responsible for as many as 4,500 eggs. bean patch when the plants are gers of being stranded on gravel time is liable to spread rot. them will reach the lake where ous bloom. around hungry.

Those which survive t he nets and the trolls are sometimes overcome by obstructions in the Skeena, such as Moricetown Falls, or low water in the streams, and succumb.

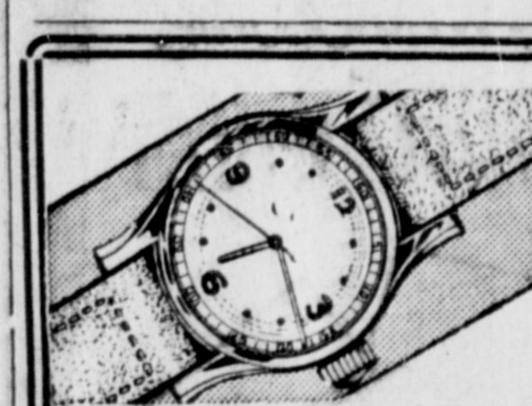

On the average, two salmon out of every hatching of 4,500 eggs return to the spawning

"Our job is to ascertain whether the current decline in the salmon population is a true decline or only a temporary dislocation of the runs," Dr. Pritchard told the Rotarians. "Our aim is conservation for maximum use, so that the fishing industry can take out as much fish as possible and still be assured that there will be fish in future years."

THIS WATCH WINDS ITSELF

On my trip to the East recently I took one of our self - winding watches to see for myself how they perform.. I was away a month and found the watch only half a minute slow. That was quite satisfactory as it keeps really good time now after a small adjustment. I had not wound or set the watch in that time.

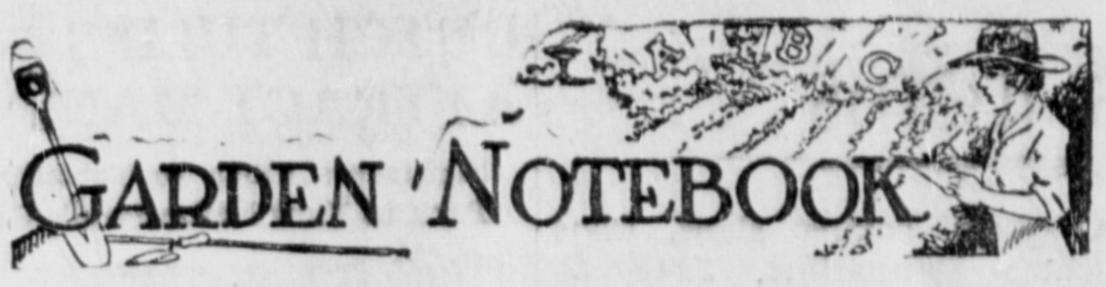

The small motion of one's arm in walking or working keeps the watch wound by means of a small weight inside the case. If laid aside it has enough reserve power to run 18 hours. Of course, you can always wind it like an ordinary watch if desirable.
