of a policy of expanding immigration for Canada make much of the fact that, even in years when immigrants were coming in plentifully, there was also an outflow of Canadian emigrants to the United States. From this fact they argue that there is little, if any, increase in population brought about by an immigration policy.

The argument is more plausible than convincing. Immigrants and emigrants alike are seeking to better their economic condition. The immigrants we received in the old days were largely of a class who were willing and able to do heavy manual work, while the emigrants we lost to the United States were largely of the professional, office-worker or skill--ed-mechanic class.

There is no relation between the arrival of a Hungarian ditch-digger in Quebec and the departure of a Canadian stenographer across the border at Windsor. What is sure is that, if enough immigrants come in, the country, with more people to share the tax load, more customers for local stores and industries, may become prosperous enough to induce Canadian emigrants to stay in Can-

Those who think Canada is so crowded that a Canadian must leave the country for every immigrant that comes in have been doing too much driving in city traffic. They ; should get out into our open spaces.

through the men's beverage room of a hotel, selling copies of the War Cry. In deference to the lady the sound of revelry decreased by several decibels. A young veteran of World War II handed the young lady a 50cent piece and shrugged the magazine aside. "But your change, sir?" she asked. Pointing at his honorable discharge button the young man said quietly, "I've had my change from the Salvation Army."

HARNESS SELF-INTEREST

THE embarrassment occasioned by lack of knowledge as to current conditions along the sparsely settled stretches of our two main highway systems between Vancouver and Prince Rupert has led to accusations and fault-finding.

Reports are casually borne along by relays to the extent they oftimes are not applicable to the current situation which can change most rapidly in this north country.

A solution is apparent in the Automobile Association of B.C. having accredited representatives in most communities along the route. They perforce pay a membership fee by virtue of being for the most part isolated, one from the other, but have rarely the occasion to assume the obligations which go with membership in any organization.

A system whereby factual information could be obtained on a daily or weekly basis from autoists they serve and in turn be passed on to Vancouver headquarters and to the nearest newspaper or radio station would pay individual garage owners dividends in the assurance provided the travelling public.

The routine form could apply to the area east or west, north or south, between respective communities, so providing an inter-locking report from which any great disparity could be instantly determined or, likewise, reports could be confirmed.

Such a voluntary system, entailing but a minor mailing charge, would go far toward eliminating well-established rumors of communities belittling roads "a little farther on," and should contribute to greater harmony between communities and provide a service creating such goodwill as to fully justify its maintenance on a year-round basis.

ARAB, JEWISH WALL, PERILS PALESTINE PLAN

LONDON-The depth and bitterness of both Jewish and Arab opposition to the British plan for splitting Palestine into three main divisions have caused informed officials to doubt if it actually can be put into effect.

This opinion was sustained Wednesday with announcement by Sir Alan Cunningham, High Commissioner for Palestine, that the Arabs had declined to sit in on a round table conference on the future of the Holy Land.

This doubt exists even in the face of a report that Prime Minster Clement Attlee has won United States Secretary of State James F. Byrnes' support. This report says that Mr. Byrnes will undertake to speak for the plan when he returns to Washington from the Paris peace conference.

If it is accurate that Mr. Byrnes has been won over to the proposal, this would mean a significant shift in American policy, since the British plan apparently makes future Jewish immigration into the Holy Land hang upon acceptance of the federalration scheme.

Meanwhile, operations on what might almost be called a warime scale have been started by the British Army against Jewish terrorists in Palestine. One of the toughest divisions of the British Army, the Sixth Airborne, popuarly known as the "Red Devils of Arnhem," has blanketed the all-Jewish city of Tel Aviv and combing the city streetmeal.
