SYRACUSE, Sicily, March 30 (CP)—They tell a story now about a naval officer who landed with invasion troops at Licata on the southern coast of Sicily and had to go to Syracuse 200 miles away. All railway traffic had stopped because the line ran too close to the fighting front. So the officer borrowed a train from the local stationmaster and ran his own "special." The officer was Lieut. G. S. Ritchie, D.S.O., Royal Navy, of Aberdeen. He had several ratings and some gear so, he said, "to go by train was the simplest way."

INSPECTOR SPEAKS

COMMUNITY SURVEY IS PROCEEDING

Rotary Club Hears What is Being Done to Improve Social Conditions

Speaking before the Prince Rupert Rotary Club at luncheon yesterday, School Inspector B. Thorsteinsson told of progress that had been made in connection with the recently inaugurated community survey of social conditions in Prince Rupert with special reference to steps being taken to counteract a tendency towards juvenile delinquency and to improve nutrition of the children. Mr. Thorsteinsson also mentioned some ideas which had been developed and were being worked upon in the matter of public safety and vocational. The speaker suggested possibilities of young people entering industries on an apprenticeship plan.

"The only way we can obtain action on these matters is to get together on a community basis and formulate intelligent plans," asserted Mr. Thorsteinsson "and we would like to have your encouragement in every way possible. What we require is the interest, time and intelligent assistance of the citizens." Mr. Thorsteinsson acknowledged financial assistance that had been given by the Rotary Club in connection with preliminary organization of the council.

Mr. Thorsteinsson spoke of how the advent of the forces and the sudden arising of war industries and defence construction had all at once completely changed conditions in Prince Rupert. A situation, unavoidable but undesirable, had been created and the idea was to meet it as effectively as possible.

The halls and places of recreation in the city, limited as they were, had been taken over. Men and women as well as older adolescents were busy working and certain groups in early and middle adolescence were left unprovided for. Home influence had also been relaxed. The situation was reflected in the schools. Juvenile delinquency had increased suddenly.

While this was by no means the full solution, it had been felt that it was important to do something in connection with recreational facilities.

A public meeting had been called at which it had been decided to institute the community survey with a view to obtaining a complete picture of the whole social situation in the city under such headings as recreation, health, vocation, youth, industry, safety, housing, culture, etc. Of course, it was not expected to suddenly renovate or moralize the city but it was felt that here was a good opportunity for effective community action. A central co-ordinating committee had been formed and sub-committees on various subjects were being set up, some having already commenced their work.

Under the heading of safety, Mr. Thorsteinsson made one suggestion that, in travelling the streets on dark mornings and evenings during the seasons when there was little daylight, white raincoats might be worn to reduce the risk of traffic accidents.

The results of a food survey among school children had already been made known. The speaker suggested that, where sunshine, so important during the years of children's growth and physical development, was lacking, it was important that the Vitamin D compounds should be made available. Indian children living in the neighborhood were supplied with cod liver oil without charge but what were the youngsters of Prince Rupert getting in that way?

Turning to the vocational field, the speaker suggested the organization of an apprenticeship system with school authori-

DEFER FARM LABOR TRANSFER DATE

Those in Outside Industry Now Have Until April 15 to Get Back — Not Many Affected Here.

The date upon which agricultural workers employed temporarily in outside industries are required to report to their local Selective Service officers to resume farm work, has been set back from March 31, as originally directed by the National Selective Service Commission, to April 15, according to word received by the Selective Service office here.

The order does not affect many persons in Prince Rupert. It was learned from E. V. Whitney, local Selective Service officer.

"This office has not issued that sort of permit to anyone directly around the city although up the railway line we have issued about 50 permits to small farmers who wish to work in nearby mines and sawmills during the winter," he explained.

The authority of the local Selective Service office extends as far east as Endako.

Mr. Whitney said that the order would have its greatest local effect on prairie farmers who have spent the winter working in this area.

"There are not many of those, either," he continued. "There are only about a dozen in the dry dock, and not more than six working on the highway."

Any in this area who are affected by the order will have to pay their own fares back to their prairie homes, it was understood.

While the government will pay the transportation costs of any farm worker who was ordered out of farm work and into another industry by the Selective Service commission, those who left their farm jobs voluntarily will have to pay their own way back.

None of the farm workers holding temporary war jobs around Prince Rupert were ordered to come here so all are responsible for their own transportation costs when they return to their homes.

LONDON, March 31 (CP)—Close on the disclosure that a jet-propelled aircraft had been built came word that a jet-propelled ship is actually in existence, capable of making fair speed through water although without engines, propeller, rudder or funnels. It is the invention of P. H. Wild, an Englishman, whose brother, S. O. W. Wild, has renewed the patent on the invention in Britain.

"My brother has carried out experiments with a ten-ton boat," said Mr. Wild. "It is propelled by jets of highly compressed products of combustion. He prefers to describe his method as 'ejector propulsion.'"
