GETTING THE RECORD STRAIGHT . .

The Attorney General of British Columbia made a speech last night. We have given the speech considerable space today and, in view of the amount of space we have devoted to the critics of the government, we regret that we could not have given more. Mr. Maitland gave an account of some of the good work that the coalition government of British Columbia has been quietly carrying out in the way of assisting in the war effort, improving conditions in British Columbia as far as the exigencies of war would permit and, equally important, formulating plans to meet the problems which will arise after the war in a province whose place in the sun as the Pacific border of Canada will be more prominent than it ever was before.

Mr. Maitland rightfully pointed out that the government of which he is a member has been working steadily at its job while some of its opponents have been concentrating their time and efforts at home and abroad on political activity. It is this statement of Mr. Maitland's that leads us to suggest that it is about time the coalition government was taking effective steps to inform the people of the province, who are long will be passing judgment upon it, of its undoubted good works and accomplishments so that the people may weigh the record against the tempting blandishments of perennial political orators and propagandists who recklessly promise an economic utopia but who have consistently failed to give us the practical prescription of how they are going to bring this about in this realistic and very human world of ours.

The coalition government of British Columbia, undoubtedly, has a record of which it may well be proud. If it has failed in any way, it has been in failing to tell the people of its excellent stewardship. We hope that the speech of Mr. Maitland's is but the commencement of a program of publicity to inform the people of what has been going on at Victoria in their behalf. Such enlightenment is something to which the public is entitled so that it may be possible to form a true judgment of the record. The opposition may be depended upon to dig up the faults and tell the public about them. But the public is entitled to hear both sides of the argument and it is up to the administration to see that its very worthy case is properly and widely presented.

TO COL. AND MRS. EVITT . . .

Yesterday's news columns brought announcement of the impending departure from Prince Rupert of Col. and Mrs. C. V. Evitt—a departure which will be the cause of regret to the legion of friends they have gathered around them during their period of residence here from the very earliest days of the community.

Older residents will recall "Charlie" 35 years back as a youthful sawmill bookkeeper and his good wife as a charming young bride. They were an engaging couple in those days and the years have made no change in the wide measure of esteem and popularity which they have so consistently enjoyed.

Successful businessman and community worker as he has been, Col. Evitt will, however, be better remembered as a good soldier who enlisted early in the First Great War, served overseas, became prominent in the local militia on his return here and went at once into active service at the outbreak of the present conflict, winning important rank and command and, in due course, going on the retired list a few months ago.

Mrs. Evitt will be remembered for her active participation with her husband in church work and various community activities.

The Evitts have been good citizens, the like of which all of us must agree we can ill afford to lose. We are happy to wish them Godspeed with the hope that they may be spared for many years to frequently revisit us.

YANK CORRESPONDENT SEES A CANADIAN BREN—A quintet of Canadians in a war-ravaged French village take time out to show Jam's Cassidy, an American war correspondent, fine points of the Bren gun, that "sweet little baby plays such an important part in street fighting." They have had lots of street fighting; in France, every hamlet being a haven for snipers long after the main body of Hun troops have retired. Handling the Brens are Spr. John Teperto of Winnipeg and Spr. Ed. Kube of St. Thomas, Ontario.

LEGION DONATES $100 TO P.T.A.

A donation of $100 to the Prince Rupert Parent-Teachers' Association tag day fund was received by the local branch of the Canadian Legion at its regular meeting last night at Legion headquarters. Appreciation of the work the association is doing in raising funds to assist city schools to purchase sports equipment and modern educational books for school libraries prompted the donation.

There is a general increase in Legion membership as members of the forces in the present war become qualified to join. Eight new members were admitted at last night's meeting. "New Vets" seem anxious to carry on for their generation the good work done for ex-servicemen in the past, it was felt.

Dr. R. C. Bamford, president, was in the chair, and there was a good attendance of members.

The usual Poppy tag day will be held in November at a date to be announced later.

FRESHER, CHEAPER FOOD for your table
by men who think of tomorrow

TOMORROW'S EVERGROWING GARDENS . . . Why should garden-fresh vegetables be available only in summer? Why should rich, ripe strawberries be a luxury in winter? Men who think of tomorrow are doing something about it. In Scotland, where seasons are short, it has been possible to grow six to eight crops of vegetables a year by heating truck gardens with underground steam pipes—under glass in winter, open to the air in summer.

MEN who think of tomorrow are planning to feed the world better than it has ever been fed before, to make it healthier than ever before. It is a glorious future to which we may look . . . but only after this war is won!

Are you working at your "war job" as hard as you can? Are you saving and turning in wastepaper to help meet the serious shortage this country faces in the manufacture of containers for war materials?

Are you collecting and turning in every last drop of fat from your kitchen to help feed the hungry machines that turn it into TNT?

Are you heeding the Government's plea to curtail your personal travel so that troops and supplies can move freely over our already congested transportation systems?

Have you added your blood to that of millions of others to provide life-saving plasma for our wounded?

And have you increased your purchases of War Savings Certificates and Victory Bonds to the limit of your ability . . . and are you holding on to them?

Only by working hard at these and scores of other "war jobs" can we be sure of Victory . . . and the ever-ripening fruits of Victory. Let us all be MEN WHO THINK OF TOMORROW!
