GARAGEMEN MAY HAVE SATURDAY OFF

If city garagemen are going to have their weekly half holiday on Saturday afternoon as they desire, instead of on Thursday afternoon, as they do now, it will require a provincial order-in-council to allow them to make the change.

When the garage proprietors made their request to city council at the last meeting two weeks ago it was referred to the city clerk to investigate council's power to authorize the change. It was found that the Thursday half holiday had been established by vote and that an order-in-council would be necessary to alter it.

The change is requested on grounds that, since retail stores close Thursday afternoon, they wish to have their delivery trucks serviced on that day and so it is difficult for garagemen to take advantage of the same holiday.

Garages in three southern cities close on Saturday afternoon while other businesses close during the middle of the week. It was learned that this was made possible by orders-in-council after the various city councils had signified approval of the change.

Last night city council passed a motion approving the city garagemen's request. Aldermen Rudderham and Arnold spoke in support of the motion.

LOCAL PUBLIC MEETING

Premier Drew of Ontario as "dirty Tory business" and the statements of Major Connie Smythe regarding lack of trained reinforcements as "shameful" and warranting his dismissal as an officer.

The speaker asserted that the Labor Progressive party had been most active in campaigning for a "Yes" vote in the man-power plebiscite while the C.C.F. had been campaigning against compulsory overseas military service. However, while conscription might have been successfully effected immediately after the plebiscite, it was doubtful if it could be done today.

"There is not one member of the Labor Progressive party to be found in the ranks of the zombies," said Mickleburgh, "but many of them have served and died on active service."

Mickleburgh charged Coldwell and Irvine of the C.C.F. with climbing on the band wagon of conscription now not because they wanted to reinforce the boys overseas but because they wanted to bring on an election.

"It is not only a tragic but an excruciating act in the crisis of war at the time of the final assault on Hitler's fortress that there should be a calculated effort to obstruct the government's effort to get reinforcements overseas just so certain interests can ease themselves into power."

The speaker did not blame Col. Ralston but felt that he had been unwittingly caught in the wheels of the plot.

As for General McNaughton he believed he was a man of honor and integrity and fully competent. "I believe his stand is correct and I am prepared to trust him in his statement that reinforcements for the army overseas can best be obtained by the voluntary method without disrupting national unity."

In moving the resolution in support of the McNaughton plan, G. B. Casey expressed appreciation of Mickleburgh's "inspiring and educational" address.

Among those who asked questions were G. D. Bryant and S. C. Thompson. H. A. Ponder deplored discrimination between volunteers and so-called "zombies."

Fred Riffou thought one volunteer was worth five conscripts. A general discussion period followed the passing of the resolution.

A collection was taken up and $36.86 was realized. The Labor-Progressive hall was packed.

Whifflets From The Waterfront

Capt. Dan Larsen is leaving today with his halibut boat Capella for Vancouver after having been here for the past week picking up effects for removal to Vancouver where he has now established his home. Capt. Larsen expresses the opinion that many halibut boats which were driven away from Prince Rupert because of lack of moorage facilities will not return here. "The damage has been done. It is too late to get them back now," he says. Of course, some may come back.

HONOR BOER LEADER

PRETORIA, S.—The Transvaal provincial council has decided unanimously to request the government to proclaim October 10 as a public holiday in the Union and to name it "Kruger Day."

BLACKBURN, Eng. S.—Triplets were born to the wife of Rev. E. C. Varah, vicar of Holy Trinity Church here.

APPOINT V-DAY COMMITTEE

City council last night moved to support the Prince Rupert Ministerial Association in its plans for the appropriate celebration of V-day, and appointed a committee to act on behalf of the city.

In a letter to council, Rev. A. F. MacSween, secretary of the Ministerial Association, pointed out the need for more comprehensive plans and asked that the city appoint a committee to help develop them and put them into effect.

Suggested by the Association was a thanksgiving service in the Capitol Theatre on V-day or the day following if word of victory comes through late in the day. The services would be held at 11 a.m., with the mayor and city clergymen officiating.

"I think that the mayor and city council should be at the head of the celebration, and that other groups be contacted to act on the committee," Alderman Arnold said in making the motion.

Appointed to the committee were Aldermen Arnold, Sinclair, and Elliott.
