On Three Fronts . . .

Allied armies on the Western Front are preparing to fight it out on that line if it takes all winter. the corresponding day's sales largest single item on the list Allied leaders and peoples must reckon with the possibility of weeks of stalemate. Estimates on the dur- was $490,150. ation of the war have been lengthened because of Mrs. Louise Santurbane the resistance the Nazis have marshalled against our forces.

But the resistance has the desperation of a stand that is seen by those making it as all but hopeless. The Nazis are reported as impressing the under-age, Mah Wing Sheck (Smithers) 100 the over-age and the physically unfit into military Mrs. Eveleen Paterson service. German authorities, moreover, are taking measures to build up guerilla forces for warfare A. M. Beattie within Germany as quickly as possible, as if they Mrs. Mildred G. The importance of the Russian drives in Czechoslovakia and Transylvania lies in the fact that the Reich may be more open to decisive invasion on the Balkan front than on either the Western or Eastern fronts. Allied pressure on the West Wall and continuing Allied advances from the Balkans might evoke the unconditional "Kamerad" necessary to end the war in Europe.

New Fishermen's Floats . . .

The prospect of early construction of the new fishermen's floats along the west end of the Prince Rupert waterfront is gratifying. With the likelihood of the war ending within the next year or so and industries starting to return to normalcy, Prince Rupert may well think about a stabilizing of the fishing business which has been shoved around a good deal at Prince Rupert since the war started.

The first thing that must be done to get the fishing industry re-established here is the provision of floats to accommodate the fleet some of which had to leave here ostensibly because there was no float accommodation for them. Even the present project may not completely meet the requirements but it is at least a start which has been deferred overly long.

It may be that fishing will once again be our principal industry and it is well that we should encourage it.

A Guess for Roosevelt . . .

If Canadians had a choosing in the United States presidential election we would say that President Roosevelt would be re-elected by a ninety per cent vote. But there is the old saying about the prophet in his own country and, from what we can gather at this distance, there may be some doubt about the outcome. However, if we were guessing, we would hazard that F.D.R. will come through for a fourth term. Certainly we on this side of the line are pulling for him, knowing him to a tried and true friend, whereas Thomas E. Dewey is an unknown factor except for having been a good district attorney at some time in his career and more recently a governor of New York who has not particularly distinguissed himself.

We do not think the people of the United States, even though the Republicans have been holding out blandishments, will be disposed to take the chance of a change at this critical time. Franklin Delano Roosevelt will still be president of the United States after the voting next Tuesday, we would speculate.

Jack Miner . . .

The forty-year-long career of a world famous naturalist ended yesterday when 78-year-old Jack Miner died at his home in Kingsville Ontario - the town made famous as one of the first bird sanctuaries on the continent. Miner took as his particular pet the Canada goose, but he made a great contribution to the advancement of knowledge of the habits of all wild fowl. He originated the idea of protecting, feeding, and conserving wild bird life in a sanctuary which became a shrine for bird lovers everywhere in North America. He was indeed a unique figure in Canadian life.

KAYOED BY JOE LOUIS

DETROIT, Nov. 4 (P)—Sergeant Joe Louis, the world's heavy weight boxing champion, is at it Toronto again. The Brown Bomber racked up another knockout in Detroit last night when he sent Johnny Denson to the canvas in Boston the second round of an exhibition fight. It was the first time that Louis had put on his boxing gloves for a public bout since at the plate. He was at that time baseball's greatest player ending his career with Philadelphia Athletics in 1988.

John A. Heydler, for 15 years president of the National Baseball League, resigned 10 years ago due to ill health. Ford C. Frick, sports writer, took over November 8 the same year.

Only the old-timers will remember when Bob Fitzsimmons won a 20-round decision over George Gardner for the light heavyweight boxing championship of the world, 41 years ago tonight at San Francisco. It was billed as the first battle for the title in that division but actually Gardner won the crown with a 12-round knockout over Jack Root at Fort Erie, Ont., four months earlier.
