First Motor Trip Through From Prince Rupert Over Highway to Terrace Made

The first party to travel from Prince Rupert to Terrace over the Skeena River Highway, now nearing completion, on Tuesday accomplished a pioneering trip along the fine roadway which runs through picturesque mountain and lake country outside of Rupert and then over a wide, smooth stretch which skirts the river alongside the railway between Tyee and Terrace. The party, including B. A. McKelvie of Victoria, representing Southam Newspapers, and G. A. Hunter, editor of the Prince Rupert Daily News and Canadian Press representative, left the city at 8:30 a.m. One gap of about a mile near Harrison Lake between the Northern Construction Co. and Rayner Construction Co.'s contracts was hiked over, the rest of the trip being made by motor transport. Terrace was reached at 4 p.m., after leisurely going. The fifty-eight-mile drive from Tyee to Terrace, took a few minutes over two Hunter returned from Terrace by train Tuesday night. McKelvie, after spending a day or so at Terrace, will continue on into the central interior and Peace River district and thence back to Vancouver.

Expectation is that the road will be completed by July 20, the work being pushed with that end in veiw.

Both newspapermen were impressed greatly with the fine construction of the road and the great boon it will be in many ways to all points concerned, particularly after the war, when the restrictions which now reduce motor travel to a minimum will have been relaxed.

SUPREME ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, June 8 (Canadian Press) — A communique today announced that the first phase of invasion now has been accomplished. The first phase was described as "the securing of a foothold and the defeating of all local German reserves." The Allies are now entering the second phase—one of defeating German "tactical reserves." The third phase, which must be won before the Allied position is completely secure, is that of defeating German "strategic re-

Allied forces today menaced the base of Cherbourg Peninsula in a great and growing tank and infantry advance south of captured Bayeux against steadily increasing German reserves. At the tip of the Norman Peninsula, an enemy communique reported, opposing armies were fighting hand to hand in Ste. Mere-Englise, twenty miles south of the coveted port of Cherbourg. Allied troops, landed on the west coast, were but ten miles from slamming shut a pincers trap.

Ross Munro, Canadian Press correspondent, reported that the Canadians had breached the enemy's outer defences, had taken several hundred prisoners and were moving inland.

New air-borne landings today speeded the Allied drive across Normandy on a wide front.

Headquarters described the capture of Bayeux as important because it opened avenues for a new advance farther into rrance.

General Dwight Eisenhower, Allied commander-in-chief, sent up to a thousand Allied bombers to smash railroads, bridges and air fields within a 150-mile radius of the decisive battle.

In the House of Commons Prime Minister Winston Churchill warned against "over optimism" in the Battle of Europe and against "the idea that things are going to be settled in a rush." Royal Air Force pilots, with rocket-firing aircraft, destroyed one German destroyer and damaged two others in the Bay of Biscay.

FIRST FORTIFIED

TOWN IS CAPTURED

The Allies last night announced the capture of the first French city the Nazis had fortified—the town of Bayeux, five miles inshore in the centre of the Normandy invasion coast.

The highway from Caen was cut by the Allies in generally heavy fighting against counter-attacking German reserves. Caen was the scene of a German armored counter-attack which was hurled back by the Headquarters of the Allied Expeditionary Force said then that the Allies are "doing better than was expected." No names were given of places where fighting had occurred. German broadcasts which reported new Allied attacks all the way from Pas-de-Calais to Nantes were ignored. The Allies reported landing beaches cleared of the enemy and linked by flank extensions in some cases while reinforcements poured in by sea and The heaviest fighting, apparently, centred around Caen and Bayeux. General Eisenhower and Admiral Sir Bertram

Ramsay, commander of Allied naval forces, cruised off invasion beaches and held conferences with operational commanders.

Allied control of bombing maintained bombing communications and other targets. The Germans reported night attacks on Lorient and Nantes.

One correspondent's dispatches indicated Canadians fighting in or near Caen.
