In Deep Mud; Nazis Are Threatened on Dnieper

MOSCOW, March 10 (CP)-The Russians took to horses in the deep Ukrainian mud today as their offensives rolled the Germans back over a 340-mile front to the outer defences guarding the Black Sea ports of Nikolaev and Kherson. The Nazis have abandoned Uman, strong Nazi base in the western Ukraine. Despatches from the Russian newspaper Red Star say that the German retreat has become "disorganized." Hundreds of thousands of Germans in the Dnieper Bend are menaced by the Soviet advances.

Ripping into the German lines and breaching positions of the enemy along a 160-mile front, the Russians appear to have opened up a new offensive on the Dneiper Bend as they continue their sweep into southern Poland.

WELSH STRIKE PROGRESSES LONDON- The number of striking Welsh coal miners has increased to nearly 100,-000 with 14 new pits in the Swansea anthracite region failing to open since Wednesday night. There are now 165 mines affected by the stoppage which is now extended to Scottish mines and has cut off Britain's coal production by 80,000 tons per day. There are signs that unrest is spreading to other war industries.

WEST COAST "WIDS" READY FOR TROUBLE-Wherever you are, whatever you're doing, you wear your tin hat and respirator for a certain part of a certain day each week at one of the RCAF's Pacific Coast stations. Telephone operators suddenly sound as if they'd developed cleft palates. Stenographers catch up on typing practice as dictation is suspended until voices get out in the open once more. The airman who whips up a smart salute can accompany it with a rude face-no one is the wiser—and cooks can peel onions without a qualm.
