SEA CADETS CANVASSING

Two Whaling Boats and Summer Camp Among Objectives

Today future members of Canada's navy are out raising funds to help in the advancement of their nautical training. Thirty-one members of the Prince Rupert Sea Cadets corps have taken strategic locations on downtown street corners and are selling tags in the annual tag day for the local Branch of the Navy League of Canada.

Proceeds of the sale of tags will go to the purchase of equipment for the 150 sea-minded boys who comprise the corps. Corps leaders have in mind the purchase of two whaling boats for training purposes. Each boat will be 25 feet long and will hold 30 young seamen.

"With those two boats we can give the boys a good deal more than dry land training. They will get the feel of having a boat under them," Alex McRae, treasurer of the local corps, said this morning.

Part of the funds will also be used to send the corps to summer camp at Point Roberts sometime in July. Last year the boys went to camp at Comox, Vancouver Island, with excellent results from both the standpoint of pleasure, and training benefit.

In their tag day last year the boys raised in the neighborhood of $700. They are hoping to do as well this year.

LONDON (CP) — Acting Sqdn. Ldr. J. A. Hegman, D.F.C., who was awarded the D.S.O. last February for bombing Berlin when 10 minutes late over the target, has been reported missing.

RETURNING WARRIORS WELCOMED

Written for the Canadian Press by MURIEL ADAMS

TORONTO, May 27 (CP)—Representatives of various Toronto service women's auxiliaries detailed to meet early - morning troop trains which are returning servicemen to their homes think being a troop train meeter in Toronto is a most worthwhile way to start the day.

Irrespective of inconvenience caused by telephone calls which may come at any time of the night heralding the arrival a few hours hence of a trainload of heroes back from the wars, these women like the chance they get to lend a helping hand.

A pocketful of change, a couple of sharp pencils and a pad of paper are some of the things these train greeters must carry—besides a bright face and ready smile.

The volunteer workers—known by their blue armbands with bold lettering—have many difficulties. They help returned servicemen find their families, supply them with change for telephoning, write messages to be sent to families in other towns if the men in question are in a hurry to make train connections and help wives of the fighting men look after their little ones.

BOY SCOUTS HELP

Boy Scouts are on hand to assist in checking train and bus schedules for harried and worried sailors, soldiers and airmen while members of the Toronto Citizens' Committee are available with their automobiles to drive happily-reunited city families to their homes.

Procedure for the returning servicemen is much the same each time a train arrives. Once off the train and in the station proper the men are given a short break. There is much hurrying and scurrying until they find families and friends. After a brief reunion they are called back to formation to await formal issuance of leave, pay, transportation, if necessary, and ration books.

Khaki-colored CWAC's then issue coffee and sandwiches after which the men are free to join their own folks once again or to catch other trains or buses if their homes are outside Toronto

CENSORED BY SPEAKER

BLACKPOOL, Eng., (CP)—Elijah Sandham, 68, former Labor M.P., who once was censured by the Speaker of the House of Commons for accusing M.P.s of accepting bribes, died here.
