PREACHES OPENING OF NORTH

W. J. Scott, president of the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce and S. E. Parker, chairman of the highway committee of the chamber, with a view to obtaining local views and reactions.

The Prince George-Teslin road would be about 647 miles in length and would cost some $14,000,000. It is the road in the construction of which the national governments of both United States and Canada would co-operate, Mr. Bullock said. It is the road on which all of British Columbia could and should unite and, as such, would have a good chance of being built. Further, he claims, it would pass through the centre of the potential mineral fields of Northern British Columbia instead of skirting them. This being the case, he contends that Prince Rupert would do well to unite with the other communities of central British Columbia in support of this road. The north-south road through British Columbia to Alaska is something in which there must be agreement if it is to be built at all, declares Mr. Bullock. He has no objection to the proposal for a road north from Hazelton but believes that the only practical way of getting that is to connect with the Prince George-Teslin road by going up the Skeena to the Sustut River, a distance of ninety miles. With another projected lateral road from Takla Lake through Mitchell Pass to Fort St. John, the Peace River district would be made tributary to the rerouted Alaska Highway and thence to Hazelton and Prince Rupert which, he contends, is the logical Pacific Coast outlet for central British Columbia.

Mr. Bullock has been spending the past four years personally investigating and mapping the north country with a view to ascertaining how best highway and later railway transportation facilities can best be provided. Having satisfied himself that the Prince George-Teslin road is the best, he is now campaigning for its construction. He has already won the support of the Pacific Northwest Trade Association and the Miller Freeman Publications.

Mr. Bullock suggests that a survey be made of both the Prince George and Hazelton routes to determine fairly and finally which is the most feasible and, that done, everyone get behind that which is chosen and fight for its construction in the interests of the development of the whole district. He is confident that the Prince George-Teslin route would be chosen. According to his plan, it would have a cut-off from Prince George to Fort St. James whence it would proceed north along Pinchi Lake, Takla Lake,
