BABY DIES OF BURNS Phillip Peter Green, six weeks old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Green, natives of Port Simpson, died last night in the Prince Rupert General Hospital as a result of burns received when his baby carriage caught fire yesterday morning at the home of his foster mother, Mrs. Katherine Green, Sunnyside cannery. According to testimony given by Mrs. Katherine Green at a coroner's inquiry this morning, she had left the infant in the care of her nine year old daughter, Phyllis, while she went to work at the cannery about 9:30. About 11 o'clock, Mrs. Green said, she was told that the baby had been burned. Rushing back to her home she found that the baby had been rescued by Mrs. Caspar Webster, who had been mending fishing nets nearby. Mrs. Green took the baby to the cannery office, where it was put in a boat and taken to Dr. Hopkinson at North Pacific cannery. There was a small wood fire in the stove when she left, but she believed it had gone out shortly afterward, Mrs. Green told the deputy coroner. The baby buggy and a stuffed chair which were ablaze when the baby was burned were removed a considerable distance from the stove and she thought it doubtful if the fire had come from the stove. She did not think her daughter, Phyllis, had been playing with gasoline. The child, who was taken to hospital here on the advice of Dr. Hopkinson, will be buried at Port Simpson.

STATEMENT RESENTED (Special to Daily News) SMITHERS, July 5 — Farmers of the Bulkley Valley fail to see the point in the poverty attributed to them by the Labor-Progressive candidate who recently toured through this district on a political campaign. Not many farmers in any district live in affluence but the farmers of Northern British Columbia are probably not behind those of any other district in annual earnings. They have their good years and their poor years, but the Bulkley Valley never sees a crop failure, and in good years some farmers do extremely well. It would seem that the greatest poverty noticed by the Labor-Progressive candidate was in the attendance at his political meetings. His meeting at Smithers brought him 15 listeners and other points throughout the district appear to have been in proportion.

Yesterday the Chinese were being hurled against a strong enemy spearhead which stabbed 46 miles south of encircled Hengyang and bloody fighting was raging in the area. The Japanese force had swung to the southwest from the outskirts of Anjen, 38 miles southeast of Hengyang.
