On this the eve of the twenty-sixth anniversary of the signing of the Armistice, Poppy Day will be observed with the selling of poppies ,first, to provide employment for maimed veterans both of this war and the last who can do no other work and who maintain their independence by the fashioning of replicas of the Flanders Poppy, which has been chosen as the flower of remembrance; second. to provide a fund to assist needy veterans and their families and also to take care of medical attention and hospitalization for them when such is indicated; and third, to prove to the world that the heroes of yesterday and today are never forgotten.

On Saturday the tagging will be under the general direction of Mrs. A. J. Croxford, president of the Canadian Legion Women's Auxiliary, and with the support and co-operation of the Imperial Order, Daughters of the Empire. Headquarters will be the Legion Rooms.

WEAR A POPPY

Once more we offer you with reverent fingers, Out of the past where poignant memory lingers, The Flanders Poppy. Ye who pass on with careless, hurrying feet, Behold her shining in the city street-The scarlet Poppy.

Ye, who exempted, trod the paths of ease, Forget not those who died to bring you peace,, And wear a Poppy; Those who endured War's meanness-and its splendor Unto the end, their very selves to render,

Because their valor lives throughout the ages, Because, once more, the bitter struggle rages,

We bring you Poppies; Because brave hands, now maimed and bruised and broken, Fashioned anew each scarlet, flaming token, Each little Poppy.

For them—the Poppy.

Because she breathes Remembrance, Faith and Sorrow, Because she whispers Hope, a fair Tomorrow-The Flanders Poppy,

Accept her blossom with a tender hand, And, proudly, that the world many understand, O, wear a Poppy.

KEY MEN TO STAY IN NAVY

No Official Announcement Yet As to Army Plans for War In Pacific

OTTAWA, Nov. 3 (P) - Certain key men in the Canadian Navy will be retained in the service FIND IT with a Want Ad! Sell regardless of their personal wishes under the new general policy whereby the naval contingent to go to the Pacific will be raised on a re-voluntary basis with partial demobilization after the defeat of Ger-

The Royal Canadian Navy, which like the Navy is believed ready to use one-third of its strength in the Pacific, has already announced a re-voluntary plan and partial demobilization.

The Army, said to be contemplating using a division in the Pacific, has not yet announced its plans.

The Navy's plans for partici pation in the war against Japan are taken as an indication that Canadian forces may serve under over-all United States command in the Pacific.

The Navy's announcement disclosed that the re-volunteers will be given leave in Canada before entering the Pacific conflict and it seems logical that they will go by way of the North Pacific and come under United States command. If Canada's naval forces were going to be under British command, they would likely forego home leave in order to start from overseas with British forces moving to Indian bases after the defeat of Germany.

VETERANS EXEMPTED

OTTAWA-In future, allowances paid to veterans of the present war while they are taking vocational or university training will be exempt from training will be exempt from Canadian income tax. Also, discharged members of the women's forces will receive unemployment work benefits on the same scale as discharged men.
