The Socialist Squabble . . .

The way the C.C.F., Communists and Social Credit people are attacking one another, there is not much for the rest of the parties to do but sit around and watch the Left groups trade blows.

The Communists, or call them Labor-Progressives if you like, realize they have to take a lot of C.C.F. votes before they can persuade the C.C.F. to play ball with them. In Alberta there have been joint conventions of C.C.F. and Communists but these are supposedly frowned upon by the C.C.F. hierarchy.

The Socreds go after the C.C.F. whenever they can seize an opportunity. The Socreds know the C.C.F. hopes to take a lot of Social Credit seats, especially in Alberta, and the Socred leaders are fighting the C.C.F. at every turn. There is quite a squabble for the Left votes. Some of the Leftist leaders hope to merge the C.C.F., Communists and Social Credit into one large Communist-dominated party. Others are holding aloof, waiting to see how each party can squeeze in ahead of the others.

Overcoming Space . . .

So rapid has been the advance of air transport Late of Hudson's Bay, Vancouver that one scarcely evinces surprise at postwar plans to create a transcontinental schedule of 12 hours. The planes will fly 220 miles an hour and make the trip with few intermediate stops. On night routes the planes will sleep up to 30 passengers.

Coincidently, many expect that plane fares will go lower—perhaps below the rail-Pullman rate. Just how the railroads can meet such a situation is debatable, but there still are many travelers who are in less haste and who enjoy the scenic views from the ground. But postwar air transport envisages even greater progress than the past decade. As one businessman said, however, pointing to the telephone on his desk: "I still can reach my customers faster than the fastest airplane can fly."
