the Bus Is Late Again!

It's raining-you're cold-and wet-and you've been waiting five-ten-fifteen minutes. You're appointment won't be kept on time-all because the bus is late again!

And then it did come along. And it was crowded-jammed. You pushed your way on board-stepped on people's toes-they stepped on yours. Somebody pushed an elbow in your ribs-an umbrella prodded the small of your back-a man's hat, sodden with rain water, dripped down your neck!

You're not a little peeved!

You say to yourself--and perhaps those around you-"Why can't we get better service? Perhaps it would be better if someone else ran the buses in this city?"

Perhaps it would be. We don't know! But we do know that the problem of being late and the inconvenience of overloading are beyond control.

New buses are difficult to obtain. Road conditions have crecked all equipment we have. There is one-sometimes twonot infrequently, all three buses in the garage for repairs.

Often we are behind schedule because patrons didn't have their fare ready. Sometimes the passenger who gets off at the first stop will sit at the rear of the crowded bus. Shoppers with parcels riding at times of peak loads delay us. Others ride the bus at busy times when they do not have to do so. Too many stops will set the driver behind.

All our drivers, too, are working under a nervous and physical strain. Trip after trip, day after day, they must stand the pounding of the bus rolling over the roads of Prince Rupert. Sometimes, too, impatient patrons blame the driver for somening that is beyond his control.

The driver's life is not always pleasant. But he is sticking o his job, doing his best.

Would you under these conditions?

Help us give better service. Observe these simple rules. Cut hem out and hang them where you can read them every day.

- 1. Don't ride the bus unless necessary.
- 2. Shoppers will find the 9:30 morning trip the least crowded and the stores not so crowded. Do your shopping then.
- 3. If you get off at the first stop sit handy to the door.
- 4. Have your fare ready. Keep a dime in your pocket always handy.
- 5. Don't take bulky parcels on the bus.
- 6. Don't try to crowd into the bus ahead of the next person. Keep in line-and take your turn.

When the bus is late or crowded don't blame the driver. de's doing his best.
