

On Parade...

1st (Reserve) Bn. Prince Rupert Regt. (M.G.)

A detail from each company will file on the range on Sunday. The trucks will leave the drill hall at 10.15 a.m. Lunches will be brought. Those who have not been out this year should make a special attempt to make it this time. The practice will be rifle and there should be some interesting competition for the top places.

The Battalion has a letter from Cliff Wanamaker who has been away on courses for so long we sometimes forget he still belongs to the Unit. He hopes to come back with a "Distinguished." We wish him good luck, but hope he has no ulterior motive and wants to get on the instructional staff and stay in the sunny south.

The nine officers who took their practice exam three weeks ago have all qualified, according to word from Brigade Headquarters.

Corporal Bill Stone is organizing a ping pong team to challenge the Area teams. It is rumored Bill is putting up a cup if the league gets under way. The training officer is confident he can regain the dollar he lost to Bill playing on the boat going south last summer.

There will be a Battalion Parade on Sunday, April 30th for the Victory Loan campaign. Dress and time to be announced later. We want a 100 percent turnout to show the citizens that the time spent on M.E.D. has not been wasted.

The brass band will parade on Monday evening for practice. The pipe band is coming on in great style and hopes are they will be able to play on April 30.

Sgt. Major MacDonald, unfortunately, is a patient in the Military Hospital and we hope he will soon be up and assisting with training again.

The training for the last month has largely been revision which is in accord with the policy laid down by Ottawa. When the weather settles down (???) as much outdoor work as possible will be done along the lines of the annual camp syllabus. In camp we will be under the eyes of the Brigade Commander and we want to show him that the Prince Rupert Regiment, although only a new battalion, stacks up even better than the Scottish who will be with us and have been organized for many years.

The Battalion will soon have its film library and the latest pictures of every phase of military training will be shown once a month. They should provide a great deal of entertainment and interest as well as instruction.

With three of the staff away, the orderly room Sergeant has been pitching in to help out, even to the extent of filling the stoves with lubricating oil instead of fuel oil, and wondering why no heat blossomed forth.

Promotion for the week is as follows: Lieut. R. G. Large (RCAMC) to Captain.

Strength increases consist of Tom Danes, Bryce Jacques and Alex Brietzke.

Mill River Stable Heads Derby List

LOUISVILLE, April 21 — Leading the list of nominators for 1944 Kentucky Derby is Mrs. Barclay Douglas of Mill River Stable who entered five horses in the Churchill Downs classic. C. V. Whitney, Greentree Stable, and Warren Wright's Calmet Farm placed four each while Allen T. Simmons named three. Fifteen owners named two horses each.

Sport Chat

Thirteen years ago Arsenal brought the English First Division football championship to London for the first time in history with a 3-1 victory over Liverpool at Highbury. Arsenal had won the English Cup the previous year.

Gerard Cote, 26-year-old St. Hyacinthe, Que., runner, won the 44th Boston marathon four years ago yesterday in the record time of two hours, 26 minutes, 28 3-5 seconds lower than the previous record. Joe Smith of Medford, Mass., lowered Cote's mark to 2:26:51.2 in 1942. Cote won the race again in 1943.

Clever Senicio, little Philippine aspirant to the world's bantamweight championship, died in a Milwaukee hotel 18 years ago tonight from effects of a ring beating he took at the hands of Bud Taylor. Senicio suffered a cerebral hemorrhage after a 10-round bout with Taylor.

NEW PROGRAM OVER RADIO

Soldiers Abroad and Families at Home Hear Same Broadcast at Same Time.

LONDON, April 20 — To bring British forces overseas and their families at home closer, the BBC has created the General Forces Service through which the people here and their sons, brothers and fathers in the overseas can listen to the same program at the same time.

This has been done by combining the service designed for troops in Britain only, initiated after Dunkerque, and the service which previously had been beamed by short wave to the men overseas. The BBC's home service, providing an alternative to the forces program, remains unchanged.

Britain waited with some anticipation built up by the BBC publicity branch for the first day of the new service.

The number of women announcers, who previously had worked entirely for the overseas division, was one of the most striking innovations for home listeners. News was presented far more frequently than in the old home service and the Daily Express commented: "A woman's voice reading the news came as the pleasant shock of all compared with the sombre tones of male announcers."

Methods of program presentation were found among home listeners to be more informal and gossipy, with background music for the announcements and martial tunes lending effectiveness to the drama features. Some of the favorites of the old programs have been retained, such DUBLIN — Senator Thomas McLoughlin, well known Northern Ireland Nationalist and a member of the Ulster Senate since 1933, died here.

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND — Crack shots, able to spot German officers in the distance, are being selected by the American Army for special sniping jobs when the invasion starts.

LONDON — To eliminate delay occasioned by separate sounding of each air raid siren and to release a great number of policemen required to operate the hand system, all warnings in the central London area and in each greater London area have been synchronized.

as "Forces Favorites," a half-hour of music which the announcer introduced on the first day of the new service with the remark "you'll hear this with your own folk at home."

Robert Foot, BBC's general director, explained why the new service was started. Generally, he said, the old overseas service had proved acceptable to servicemen but they all said "what a pity my wife, or my mother, or my sweetheart cannot listen to what I am listening to." From the people in Britain came letters asking "can't we hear the programs that our John mentions in his letters?"

The new program had been arranged in a "sincere endeavor" to keep Britain's men abroad united in spirit with their homes, he added.

TODAY Canadians, Americans and Englishmen are working in closer and closer accord. On five different continents... across the seven seas... our joint operations extend.

But the greater our success as comrades-in-arms, the greater our need to become partners in peace. The war has taught us that our complete strength lies in the full measure of co-operation which the British Commonwealth and the United States have achieved together. And, on the continuance of this co-operation, we base our hopes for a just and lasting peace.

We Canadians know the British and the Yanks so well... like them both so much... that we are the "best friend" of each.

Truly, Canada's Peace Tower symbolizes a common meeting-ground for mutual understanding... for an enduring peace.

In our hearts is the same concept of freedom!

IT is only natural that Canadians, Americans and Englishmen share the same concept of freedom, for we also share one of the earliest defenders of the freedoms we are fighting for today. He was a Calvert, an enlightened English statesman and founder of colonies off Canada's shore and in Maryland. In statesmanship and wisdom, the Calvert family were far ahead of their age. In 1638 Calvert's son and successor, carrying on the democratic Calvert tradition, fined a man of his own faith five hundred lbs. of tobacco for "vilifying and profaning another's religion." Thus a man's freedom to worship as he pleases was established in the New World by a Calvert.
