Legion Hall As Terrace School

TERRACE, June 5 — Terrace branch of the Canadian Legion, at a well attended meeting in their hall Wednesday with President J. H. McCarthy in the chair, decided to permit the school board the use of the hall for a period. The accommodation at the public school being overtaxed for the time, some of the little tots will be accommodated there.

The matter of pensions under the Soldiers Allowance Act came in for some consideration. Cases exist where the increase in the monthly allowance has not been received by the old soldiers and the meeting asked the secretary, Comrade McKinnon, to follow this up.

It was decided to connect the hall with the village water system and to further improve the Legion's property by building a woodshed at the back.

(By Dorothy Garbutt)

An old time dance will be held tonight at the Empress. Last week I was very pleased to see so many of our senior hostesses out to it. And by the looks of things they were thoroughly enjoying the squares, the quadrilles, the schottisches, the foxtrots, the two steps and of course the waltzes.

CHINESE SHOW IS COLORFUL

(By DOROTHY GARBUTT)

Saturday afternoon I went to the Chinese War Relief movies. We had an interesting and entertaining afternoon. The performance was opened with an introductory speech by Mr. Wong, who is the president of the local Chinese Patriotic Society.

Then a news reel was shown followed by very lovely technicolor pictures of the visit of Madame Chiang Kai-Shek to San Francisco and of the marvellous welcome given to her by the San Francisco Chinese population. There seemed to be endless parades and, as befitting parades given for a notable woman, most of the participants seemed to be women and children. There were lovely little drum majorettes, whole drum corps of girls dressed in Chinese costume, tiny children in colorful garb and ingenious and artistic floats. And everywhere the Chinese and American flags flew side by side. There was a picture of one very old and historic Chinese flag, carried by dozens of women, because of its weight, into which money for the Chinese war relief was flung.

The captions were all in Chinese and whenever Madame's name came up it was in red lettering—such a subtle courtesy, I thought.

This film was followed by a movie produced by the Chinese Young People's Association of San Francisco. The dialogue and all the actors were Chinese. Margaret Lee very kindly sat beside Mrs. Miller and I and interpreted the story for us. It seems there was a Chinese-American merchant with two lovely modern daughters who attended a good co-educational high school. He was very tight with his money and would only give two dollars to the Relief for China fund when the school put on a benefit play in which his daughters acted. The eldest daughter felt so ashamed that she put in two hundred dollars from her own bank account in his name. He is a very unpleasant parent indeed and objects to both of the boy friends of his daughters. But fate marches on. His wife returns to China to be with her ailing mother and is killed at Hong Kong. His business goes to ruin and his health fails. Then it is that the eldest daughter's boy friend comes to the rescue by asking his father, a wealthy merchant, to assist the ruined man and the youngest daughter's boy friend has his father, a famous medico and herbalist, to bring him back to health. And so in his gratitude the wicked old father is a changed man, becomes a partner in his friend's firm and gives vast sums to the relief fund.
