"I thought I'd educate myself | Hampshire. in the 12 months I spent there but I didn't have time," she confesses. "We did so much entertaining and I took Danish lessons and somehow the days just whizzed by.

"We lived in luxury compared to the rest of the people there, she says. The Canadian consulate has electricity, hot and cold the part of local people since water and a furnace.

Food was sent in once a year by the Canadian government. Mrs. Lloyd ordered hers before she left for Godthaab. Fish and birds were plentiful and occasionally they had seal and caribou meat.

Language was a problem. The Danes all spoke English but the Greenlanders understood only Greenlandic and Danish. She took Danish lessons from the wife of a seminary head but admits she still isn't perfect at it. Mona, who attended Danish school, speaks the language fluently and "she often had to interpret for me."

A Weekly Movie Show

Recreation was plentiful. "We had a good supply of books, the radio reception was clear and then there was a movie once a week. In addition, we did a great deal of visiting."

Slacks, sweaters, fleece lined boots and a fur coat were her mainstays in clothing. "It's not really cold but it's usually cloudy and damp and the winds are terrible."

In June, Mrs. Lloyd was flown to the American military hospital at the south base where her baby son, Hugh, was born. When the baby was three weeks old they were flown back up the ice cap. The trip back to Canada was Unqualified in his dislike chlorinated water, Alderman Rudderham admitted that had been doing a bit of reading in medical books and had found comfort therein. "From what I have read," he said, "I don't think that our water supply is sufficiently con taminated to be dangerous to the health of the people. The bacteria in the water is not of an injurious type. I cannot see for the life of me why we should pay for something that is unnecessary.

"As far as I'm concerned," he added, "if you gave me chlori nation for nothing I still wouldn't want it. You can't purify what is pure."

City Engineer Phillips said that operation of the chlorination plant might cost the city from $2,500 to $3,000 a year, employing an attendant for about four hours a day, but felt that it was necessary.

For next month, preserves coupons Nos. 22, 23, 24 and will be used. Each of these coupons is good for one-half pound of sugar so there is no reduction in the consumer allotment. On the other hand, the change will enable people who prefer preserves to sugar to get a larger quantity of jams or jellies for the Christmas season.

Men who think of tomorrow are planning self-reading books, uninterrupted symphonies Your radio-phonograph of tomorrow will bring you complete novels, dramas and symphonies magnetically impressed on small spools of steel wire. Hours of entertainment will be provided by a single spool no larger than your hand. And on spools of "blank wire" you will be able to make your own recordings-to keep permanently or to "wipe clean" for re-use any time you wish! Yes, your Victory Bonds will buy greater pleasures and comforts tomorrow!

Men who think of tomorrow say

"HOLD ON TO YOUR VICTORY BONDS TODAY"

NO ONE can repeal the law of supply and demand. But we can make it work our way by holding on to Victory Bonds bought to finance our nation at war.

Here's why: For many months consumer goods will continue to be searce. Bidding for these goods with our extra dollars, thus driving prices up, only serves to devalue all of our personal wealth, and that of the nation.

By leaving our extra money in safe keeping with our government-for repayment when conditions have become normal-we automatically keep prices down and maintain the law of supply and demand in balance.

That's why your Victory Bonds may save you twice what you've invested in them-if you hold on to them now. When tempted cash them in-think of tomorrow!
